TWO GEORGIA ALIENISTS SUBPOENAED BY COURT AS MANLEY ADMITS INABILITY TO PAY EXPERTS Threat of Southern Revolt Alarms Hoover

PRESIDENT CALLS CHAIRMAN HUSTON TO PACIFY GROUP

Determination of Mann
Party in South Taken Seriously.

LINES TIGHTEN IN COMING BATTLE

Mann Controls 260 Votes in Convention, Hoover Hears—Atlanta Meeting Is Called.

Washington, October 15.—(Special.)—A threat of organizing "the better people of the south" in a revolt against President Hoover's patronage dispensers has brought a rapid series of conferences between the president and Republican Chairman Claudius H. Huston.

They are deeply concerned because Colonel Horace A. Mann, who was Hoover's southern campaign director, has started quietly to corner some 260 republican convention votes in the south, and his cohorts frankly admit he is "ready to do business."

Affraid of Mann.
On the surface the feud is between Colonel Mann and the administration patronage triumvirate—Postmaster-General Walter Brown, Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, and James Francis Burke. Within 30 days, Colonel Mann will call a ramp convention to meet in Atlanta to challenge the return of the "old crowd" of politicians under their management.

The administration triumvirate refused to recognize organizations built up by Mann, who led the fight that turned four southern states to Hoover in November. Now Mann is ready for a showdown.

The triumvirate has been afraid of Mann and Mann's idea of excluding negroes. They have returned power to their old crowd, a black and tan mixture, and were fortified by the president's order that "Hoover-crats" be generously represented on each new party set-up. Now the given no noteworthy patronage spoils, are ready to turn.

Huston, Mann Not Speaking.
It all started to come out yesterday in a statement from E. F. Callaway, republican state chairman of Florida, the forerunner of a formal convention called by Mann for a new order of southern republicans.

Huston, who hails from Tennessee and was a campaign ally of Mann, rushed to the White House today for further conference. But Huston's hands are tied. He is said to have told the president the south was not ready for a cabinet member after Mann had promised it. He and Mann fell out to such an extent that Mann is reported to have warned Huston to keep on the other side of the street. A month ago it appeared that Mann was to be given a desk in national headquarters as southern campaign director. But that fell through.

Postmaster-General Walter F. Brown, as head of the president's unofficial committee appointed to deal with southern patronage problems, today was inclined to make light of the threatened revolt in the ranks of southern republican leaders as expressed in the highly critical statement issued here yesterday by State Chairman E. F. Callaway, of the Florida republican organization.

Brown Belittles Move.
In an informal interview with correspondents whom he met after leaving the regular Tuesday noon cabinet meeting at the White House, Mr. Brown characterized the Florida statement as a disappointed office-seeker and ventured the prediction that the movement announced by Callaway would fail. He indicated that members of the unofficial southern committee were not alarmed over the threatened revolt in the ranks of southern republicans. Although the Callaway statement issued from headquarters here of Glenn B. Skipper, republican national committeeman from Florida, was regarded as more of a threat against the Hoover administration, it seemed reasonably certain today that the threat will be carried out.

The conference members of the Mann group still say, will be held in Atlanta, with assurance already given that members of the faction in Georgia opposed to the leadership there of Internal Revenue Collector J. T. Rose will participate fully. H. G. Hastings, of Atlanta, regular republican manager of the Hoover campaign in Georgia last fall, will be in charge of arrangements, it is asserted.

County Refuses To Call Election On Merger Plan

LAWLESSNESS OF LAW ENFORCERS WILL BE PROBED

Crime Commission Appoints Experts to Inquire Into Officials' Acts at Hoover's Request.

Washington, October 15.—(AP)—The law enforcement commission has decided to face squarely the problem presented by lawlessness of government officers in enforcing prohibition and other laws, and announced today the appointment of two additional experts to make an inquiry into that end.

They are Professor Zechariah Chafee, of the Harvard law school, and Walter N. Pollak, of New York city. A lawyer, Pollak served as special assistant to the attorney general in the prosecution of Nicky Arnstein for bond thefts.

Aside from the brief announcement at the end of its session today that they would probe into "lawlessness by government law-enforcing officers," the commission revealed no details of the work to be undertaken. It is known, however, that this most recent phase of its work, begun at the direction of President Hoover, is considered vital by members of the commission.

While their work is not restricted to prohibition enforcement, Pollak and Chafee doubtless will go thoroughly into phases of that situation. The doing of dry agents, the coast guard and border patrols doubtless will be scanned with a view to ascertaining how much and often, if at all, lawlessness has been indulged in to enforce the Volstead act.

The commission has yet to select an expert to assist in investigation of the general subject of prohibition, which it made one division of its field of inquiry. The two experts named today were the only ones selected to work together on any one of the eleven divisions mapped for study.

Conferring continuously from early morning until late today, the commissioners were said to have discussed several of the divisions of their task, but no information was given as to the character of their deliberations.

Besides prohibition there remain the subdivisions of penal institutions, probation and parole, juvenile delinquency, and the cost of crime, for which expert assistance has not been secured. Selection of the two experts named today brought the total of assistants to eight; the commission having already secured one for each of its divisions covering causes of crime, statistics of crime, police, prosecution, courts and criminal justice and the foreign-born.

JIMMY WALKER OPENS CAMPAIGN FOR RE-ELECTION

New York, October 15.—(AP)—To the accompaniment of the band, red fire and torches, Tammany Hall tonight formally opened its campaign for the re-election of Mayor James J. Walker and the Tammany ticket.

The Tammany wigwag was crowded and ovations greeted the arrival of former Governor Alfred E. Smith, Mayor Walker, Comptroller Charles W. Berry, Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee, John F. Curry, Tammany chieftain, and his predecessors, George W. Oliver, when they appeared on the platform.

The principal speakers were former Governor Smith, Mayor Walker, Comptroller Berry and Aldermanic President McKee.

MORE THAN 21,000 JAILED IN YEAR ON BOOZE CHARGE

Washington, October 15.—(United Press.)—More than 21,000 individual jail and prison sentences were imposed by the government for liquor law violations during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, an increase of 1,889 over the preceding year, the department of justice announced today.

Fines, forfeitures and penalties amounted to $7,476,300, of which $4,200,000 was collected, the department said.

There were 43,183 pleas of guilty recorded and 4,845 trials by jury.

Resolutions State That Teachers, Pupils and Pa- trons Are Satisfied With Present School System.

Definite decision not to call for a referendum on the question of merging the Atlanta city schools with the Fulton county system was reached by the county board of education Wednesday afternoon following a public hearing at which approximately 500 persons appeared in opposition to the merger as proposed under act of the recent legislature.

Resolutions adopted by the county board of education in an executive session following the public hearing expressed the decision of the board that it "will not now, or in so far as we are now advised and believe, at any time in the future, request the city council of Atlanta to call an election pursuant to the recent act of the Georgia legislature."

On adoption of the resolutions, W. W. Gaines, member of the county board, said that at the next meeting of his board he would present a resolution to the effect that the city board will not give further consideration to any form of a merger of the two systems. The city board members had proposed, in lieu of the merger under the legislature's act, that a metropolitan school district be created.

Resolutions Adopted.
The resolutions adopted by the county board follow:
"Whereas, the patrons, teachers, and pupils of the Fulton county school system are, so far as we are advised and have reason to believe, entirely satisfied with the state school system of education under which the Fulton county schools are operated, and desire that no change be made in the school system of Fulton county; and

"Whereas, it would not be legally possible to make any change in the Fulton county school system, even if the Fulton county board of education were to vote in favor of such a change, and the Fulton county board of education is, in the opinion of the board, not in a position to make any change in the school system of Fulton county; and

"Whereas, the members of the Fulton county board of education believe that it would be unwise to make any change in the school system of Fulton county; and

"Whereas, the members of the Fulton county board of education believe that it would be unwise to make any change in the school system of Fulton county; and

FORRESTER-HIRSCH AUDIT IS SOUGHT

Trustee Files Petition To Get Complete Record of Partnership—Date for Hearing Set.

Demand for an accounting of a business partnership which is alleged to have existed between the late George W. Forrester and M. L. Hirsch was contained in a suit filed Tuesday in Fulton superior court by Frank Holden, trustee in bankruptcy for Forrester's estate.

Judge G. H. Howard signed an order requiring Hirsch to file at a hearing on October 26 the bank deposit books, bank statements and cancelled checks of the alleged partnership, as well as books of account relating to the coal business said to have been operated by Forrester and Hirsch, and copies of income tax returns made by Hirsch to the government for the account of the coal business.

In a petition filed by Attorneys William A. Fuller and Thomas M. Stubs for Trustee Holden, it is alleged that there is to be accounted for by the defendant a total of $402,648.96, representing the difference alleged to have been paid by Forrester to Hirsch and the amounts received from the defendant by Forrester between May of 1923 and September of 1928.

The plaintiff asks for a full and complete accounting and judgment for any amount found to be due the estate. Holden also petitions for a restraining order to prevent the defendant from disposing of or altering the status of the partnership assets, or from disposing of his personal assets. The petition asks for an order impounding books for identification, with provision for return of the books to the defendant for use in accounting.

On information and belief, the plaintiff alleges that prior to May of 1923 the defendant and Forrester joined in a business venture as "M. L. Hirsch, Trustee Coal Account," and carried on the business until Forrester's bankruptcy. The petition alleges that Forrester paid to Hirsch a total of $2,912,882.39 during that period, and that during that time Hirsch paid back $2,510,233.43 to Forrester.

The plaintiff alleges that written demands on Hirsch for the accounts had met with no reply, and that in a hearing by the referee in bankruptcy Hirsch agreed to produce the records and books, but turned over to Allen W. Clapp, auditor, only the checks and check stubs, never making available all of the books and records.

ST. LOUIS GREETS
26 SHIPS OF FORD
RELIABILITY TOUR

St. Louis, October 15.—(AP)—Twenty-six of the 27 airplanes competing for $20,000 in prizes and the Edsel Ford trophy for reliable flying streamed into the airport here today, completing a 261-mile hop from Louisville, Ky.

Forest O'Brien, who recently set a world's record for sustained flight in the St. Louis Robin from the local field, was the lone entry who failed to reach the overnight control point. An overhauled motor forced his return to Louisville.

Twenty-four of the planes arrived between 3 and 4 o'clock, coming in bunches. At times eight or nine planes would be visible and the first three to finish, E. A. Nagle, in a Bellanca; Wiley Post, in a Lockheed-Vega; and Steve Lacey, in a Cessna, crossed the line at one-minute intervals. Post had the best elapsed time for the hop, 1 hour 43 minutes, with Lacey four minutes behind him.

BIG PENNEY DAIRY ON PONCE DE LEON

Site for Foremost Company Plant at Penn Avenue Chosen—Other Deals Announced.

Purchase of a large corner tract on Ponce de Leon avenue by the Foremost Dairy Products, Inc., reported Tuesday, was seen to give definite form to the plans for erection of a $500,000 model dairy plant here, which was one of two important developments of the J. C. Penney interests referred to last week by visiting officials as designated for Atlanta.

The site selected by the Foremost Dairy Products company is on the southeast corner of Ponce de Leon and Penn avenues. It is a vacant tract having 200 feet frontage on Ponce de Leon and extending back 400 feet along Penn. It was purchased from the Peters Land Company.

Announcement of the chain dairy corporation's intention to build a large, modern plant here at an early date was made by Dr. Burdette G. Lewis, president of the Foremost Dairy Products, Inc., and J. C. Penney, chairman of the board, when they were in Atlanta last week to attend an annual convention of Penney company managers and to observe the Southeastern Fair exhibit, at which Mr. Penney and the Foremost company had displays.

To Start at Once.
At this time it was stated that immediate construction of the dairy plant to serve as southeastern headquarters for the Foremost organization was planned. A second large project referred to at that time involved plans for establishing a branch store of the J. C. Penney company here sometime in the future. The company now operates 1,500 retail department stores.

Cry of "Snake" by Lag- gard Student Causes Panic Among Those in Structure.

Quitman, Ga., October 15.—(AP)—Sixty-five pupils and the superintendent of Oak Hill school, located five miles from here, were suffering tonight from injuries sustained today in the collapse of a portion of the school building as children fled in panic at the cry of "snake."

The superintendent, G. P. Gunnels, was believed to have suffered the most serious injuries. He crawled beneath a porch in search of the reptile and was trapped under the falling timbers.

The fear-stricken pupils, crowded on the porch, were buried beneath the roof as it crashed down.

Many of the injured were brought here for treatment and others were treated at their homes by doctors who went from Quitman to the scene of the tragedy.

Superintendent Gunnels was said to be suffering from shock and severe bruises. Others most seriously injured included: Shelton Renfro, broken collarbone; Evelyn West, head injuries; Esther Gunnels, daughter of the superintendent, deep cuts over the eyes; Albert Smith, broken ankle and probable internal injuries; Allen Mattox, severe head injuries; Practically all of the 65 pupils were injured, but most of them escaped with minor cuts and bruises. The wife of the superintendent was among the number sustaining minor injuries.

A laggard pupil on the outside of the building who shouted "snake" as chapel exercises were beginning was blamed for the stampede to the doors. The serpent was said to be under the porch and Superintendent Gunnels crawled beneath the building to hunt for it. The crash came suddenly without warning.

Oak Hill school has an enrollment of about 70 and nearly all the children were on the porch when the roof fell after the floor had given away.

DEFENSE WITNESS HELD FOR PERJURY

Pantages Lawyers De- nounce Prosecution for "Effort to Intimidate"; Told of Frame-Up Plans.

Los Angeles, October 15.—Garland Biffle, law book salesman and attorney, first defense witness for Alexander Pantages, theater magnate in his trial on a charge of criminal assault, was arrested today as he left the stand. He had testified that Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer and accused of Pantages, had attempted to "frame" Pantages.

Biffle had testified that he heard a conversation between a girl and a man, whom he identified as Miss Pringle and Nicholas Dunaway, author of her dancing skit, on the stairway of the Pantages Theater building about the time Miss Pringle arrived there on the afternoon of the alleged assault.

He stated that as the two went up the steps, the girl turned to the man and said: "If he doesn't place me, hell, I always be sorry," and that her companion replied: "Don't get cold feet."

The girl answered: "I won't," according to Biffle.

On cross-examination, District Attorney Byron Fitts failed to shake Biffle's testimony, either regarding identification of the couple or the subject matter of the conversation.

Biffle stepped faultily from the courtroom, followed by Blaney Mathews, district attorney's investigator, who made the arrest.

Fitts said that Biffle would be taken before the county grand jury at the earliest possible time.

MANLEY IN COURT ON HOSPITAL COT

Defense Makes Vain Effort To Have Manley
Sent to U. S. Hospital for Examination.

Two Georgia alienists will be introduced into the sanity test trial of W. D. Manley, former Atlanta banker, when proceedings are resumed in federal court here this morning.

Roger G. Swint, of the state sanitarium at Milledgeville, and Richard W. Soper, of the United States government hospital at Augusta, were subpoenaed by the court late Tuesday afternoon upon request by Manley's counsel.

Federal officials, however, pointed out that the physicians cannot be compelled to examine the defaulting banker, owing to the fact that they are being brought here under their own expense.

Announcement was made in the form of an affidavit signed by Arthur Powell, one of Manley's attorneys, that the former financier now is in financial distress and that he does not possess the means of meeting the expense attached to the subpoenaing of the alienists.

Banker Wheeler Into Court.

After months of court delay due to continuances granted the defendant, Manley was wheeled into the federal courtroom Tuesday morning on a hospital cot on which he had been brought from the Allen sanitarium at Milledgeville, and heard his counsel enter an exception to the court's refusal of the motion made Monday and then present a second motion for continuance, based on an affidavit by a New York psychiatrist, who declared him to be mentally unsound.

The defense appeal, requesting the court to send Manley to a government hospital for examination, was overruled by Judge Samuel H. Sibley and a jury, composed of ten white men and two negroes, was impaneled to pass upon the former banker's sanity.

In summarizing the test case by the jury, the judge said that he doubted if the latitude under federal statutes permitted him to have Manley examined by government experts.

Declaring that it was the government's theory that "Manley has feigned insanity, and has been aided in simulating the symptoms of mental disorder," United States District Attorney Clint W. Hager strenuously opposed the defense motion to have the defendant placed in a government hospital.

Hager stressed the importance of the testimony of "lay witnesses" who, he said, had been able to watch Manley.

South's Annual Output, One-Fourth of Nation's, Totals Twenty Billion

Eugene R. Black, District Governor of Federal Reserve Bank, Says This Section Making Great Progress.

Products of the south for the year of 1928 were placed at a valuation of $20,000,000,000 by Eugene R. Black, governor of the Federal Reserve bank for the sixth district, in an address Tuesday at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Civic Club.

Mr. Black took as the subject of his address, "The South Today." He is regarded as an interesting and forceful speaker, and through his position has a wealth of information on conditions in this part of the country that places it in a most favorable light.

The value placed on the products of the south was one-fourth of the total of the entire United States, Mr. Black said, showing that this section of the country was taking an important place along with the others and that it was making rapid progress.

Mr. Black told of what the south was accomplishing in both an agricultural and an industrial way, reviewing the records of all the states in the section. Values of both the agricultural products and the industrial output reached enormous figures and Mr. Black said that they were showing a steady gain.

Quite a bit of Mr. Black's address was devoted to Florida, with particular reference to the speculative era. He regarded the future of Florida as being especially bright and emphasized the fact that the Federal Reserve bank had lost a dollar on the banking institutions of that state.

One of the biggest factors for the advancement of the south, in the opinion of Mr. Black, was that the banking institutions of this section had reached the point where they could finance any proposition, whereas in years past it was necessary to go to New York for money and pay high discounts.

Resources of banks in the south totaled $10,000,000,000, Mr. Black said, this amount being one-eighth of that for the whole United States. Under such conditions, Mr. Black said, that the position of this section of the country might be regarded as particularly sound and on a firm basis.

Appreciation of the club members for Mr. Black showing them the honor of addressing the organization was expressed by George McCarthy in a few brief remarks.

Plans for Convention. Every member of the club who could possibly make arrangements to do so was urged to attend the state association convention of Civic Clubs next Monday and Tuesday in Macon. It was announced that there would be no meeting of the local club at that time.

Herbert Porter, district governor, reported that the Macon club wanted as many as could to come on Sunday, a preliminary entertainment of large proportions being scheduled for Sunday night. In speaking of the convention proper, Mr. Porter said that the officials and district trustees would meet at 9 o'clock Monday morning. The regular session is scheduled to start at 11. Following this there will be a model luncheon and another business session in the afternoon. At night will be the principal entertainment feature of the convention, a ball. Tuesday morning's session will be devoted to the business of the association.

Dr. Slosson Dies. Washington, October 15.—Dr. Edwin E. Slosson, 64, director of science service, died at his home here tonight of heart disease after an illness of a month.

Employers of Cornelison said he had been acting queerly all day, and that they believed he had been mentally unbalanced since noon. By-standers said he leaped from his truck, screaming "They are after me," and out his throat.

Officers who investigated reported that Cornelison then faked up his knife, put it in his pocket and waited for the arrival of an ambulance. He collapsed shortly after he reached a hospital.

DRUGGIST FIGHTS GUN DUEL WITH BANDITS

T. W. Mitchell Fights Off Thieves. Negro Suspect Is Found Dying.

Instead of sticking up his hands and turning over his cash register to two negroes who late Tuesday night entered the store, T. W. Mitchell drew his gun and fought a gun duel with the bandits. The shots attracted the attention of Patrolmen J. R. Palmer and J. R. Collins, who said they saw one of the negroes running toward the railway yards. They were unable to find him.

Later Tuesday night S. N. Griffith, special agent of the Georgia railroad, reported to police headquarters that a negro had been found in the yards in a dying condition. Call Officers Arthur Daily, L. E. Ratledge, R. E. Lloyd and R. L. Mosley answered the call and took the negro to Grady hospital. He had a bullet wound near the heart. Although the negro, Jesse Warthen, of a Hilliard street address, stoutly denied any connection with the attempted holdup of the drug store, Patrolmen Palmer and Collins and Mitchell said they were positive he was one of the pair.

One of the negroes, who was as though shot when leaving the store, and that he was positive Warthen was the other. No trace of the other negro had been found late Tuesday night.

CHAPLIN'S EX-WIFE TO MARRY STAR OF STAGE REVUES

Milwaukee, Wis., October 15.—(United News.)—Engagement of Lita Gray Chaplin, divorced wife of Charlie Chaplin, and Phil Baker, noted revue comedian, was confirmed by Mrs. Chaplin tonight.

Both Mrs. Chaplin and Baker are playing in vaudeville theaters here this week. "Yes, we are engaged," Mrs. Chaplin told the United News.

Mrs. Chaplin had kept it secret, but finally decided that Milwaukee was as good a place as any to tell of her love.

Mrs. Chaplin said the engagement was announced formally at a party here last night. Among the guests who congratulated her was Roy D'Arcy, actor, who was rumored engaged to her shortly after her divorce from the screen comedian.

Acquaintance of Mrs. Chaplin and Baker dates back five years, she said, when she still was the wife of Charlie Chaplin in Hollywood and he was starring in New York revues. Their marriage will take place at an indefinite date in the future, she said, probably when their respective vaudeville contracts expire.

BIG RUBBER FIRMS ADVANCE PRICES ON RETAIL TIRES

New York, October 15.—(AP)—Further increases in automobile tire prices were announced today by manufacturers.

Service station prices of General Tire and Rubber Company's tires have been advanced 10 per cent, except truck and bus balloons, which will be increased from 20 to 22 per cent. The United States Rubber Company also raised prices, but has not determined the exact extent of the advance. The company intimated that the increase would be in line with the changes made by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, which announced an increase yesterday.

The B. F. Goodrich Company's new price list, which became effective today, shows little change from the list in effect previously, prices on some lines, however, were advanced.

WESTERN UNION INCREASES WAGES $2,000,000 YEAR

New York, October 15.—(AP)—The Western Union Telegraph Company today announced that annual wage increases of approximately $2,000,000 have been agreed upon by its officials in conference with representatives of the Association of Western Union Employees.

The increases will affect employees whose salaries are under $3,000 yearly, and will be distributed among them according to merit. These increases are exclusive of promotion increases or others to be granted in 1930.

Increases in the pay of employees receiving over $3,000 a year and of operators having less than two years' service will be dealt with by the company direct, and any such increases will be in addition to the amount negotiated by the association.

37 SENTENCED FOR RUSSIAN EMBASSY RAID

Tokyo, October 15.—(AP)—Bengo News Agency dispatches from Harbin, Manchuria, said today that sentences ranging from two to nine years imprisonment had been imposed on 37 persons arrested by Manchurian authorities in their raid on the Russian consulate general last May.

It was this raid which precipitated the seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway and brought on the conflict between Russia and China in Manchuria.

The trial, which took place in a Manchurian local court, lasted from October 2 until October 8. Counsel for the defense protested vigorously against the court's alleged refusal to permit the calling of witnesses and the introduction of documentary evidence.

Seadrome Model Launched To Prove Sea Landing Theory. Cambridge, Md., October 15.—(AP)—A model of the Armstrong seadrome, which the inventor, Edward R. Armstrong, hopes will make transatlantic flights possible through 400-mile hops, was launched in the Choptank river where it flows into Chesapeake bay today for a series of tests which are hoped will prove the invention's seaworthiness.

Tests on the model, one thirty-second of the size the inventor hopes to use in the ocean, will, he said, furnish data which will enable engineers to compute to within 5 per cent. The strain which will be exerted on the larger seadrome.

Plans for the regular size floating landing field call for a 40-room hotel, repair shops and hangars for the planes, held by a 15-ton anchor, it will weigh, when in position, 38,000 pounds, supported by 32 buoy-like legs.

Insurance Men Of City To Honor W. H. Harrison

About 150 of Atlanta's representative insurance men will be present at a luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 12:30 o'clock today to honor Georgia's newly appointed insurance commissioner, William D. Harrison, who succeeds the late General William A. Wright.

The Atlanta Casualty and Surety Association is sponsoring the luncheon and will have as its guests all of the people engaged in the casualty, surety and fire insurance business in and near Atlanta.

At the meeting also will be discussed the question of perfecting the Georgia Insurance Society recently developed at a meeting of several prominent insurance officials and general agents. It is the purpose of the Georgia Insurance Society to align in one social organization all of those engaged in the business of insurance in whatever branch throughout the state, and to celebrate at a two-day convention in Atlanta in the same manner as has been the rule in Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Indiana and other northern states.

The Atlanta Surety Underwriters' Association was organized in its present form about two years ago and Lindsey W. Bode, of the Haas-Howell Agency, was elected president. Through the first two years the organization's life Mr. Bode presided and is largely responsible for the marked progress made by the body during his tenure.

On January 1 of this year Frank Maloney, attorney in the surety division of the Fidelity & Casualty Company for the southeast, succeeded Mr. Bode as president, and his administration hopes to have as its outstanding achievement the perfection of the Georgia Insurance Society, a program which has received the enthusiastic endorsement of those in the insurance business throughout the state.

Gaining momentum, a program of the Georgia Association of Fire Insurance Agents, the idea was explained in detail and was enthusiastically commended by the executive committee and the body at large.

There is every reason to believe that the insurance convention next May in Atlanta will bring 1,000 men and women from all over the state to Atlanta for a combined business and social occasion which will be unique in the history of Georgia. Prominent executives in the insurance and associated industries will discuss questions of interest to various groups which will meet for the consideration of problems peculiarly their own, during the first day. On the second day the morning will be given over to social diversion.

According to Frank Maloney, one of the prime movers to the perfection of this organization, the enthusiastic support of everyone who has discussed the plan is pledged and there is little doubt that it will be an outstanding success.

PLEA OF CRUELTY WINS A DIVORCE FOR LEWIS STONE

Los Angeles, October 15.—(United News.)—Lewis Stone, well-known screen actor, was granted a divorce today from Florence Pryor Stone, known on the stage as Florence Oakley, on ground of mental cruelty.

The divorce was granted by Judge on the head with one hand and slapped me with the other." He testified her treatment of him in public always was a good because she was "a fine actress."

A property settlement was made out of court.

Methodist Church Gains Membership; Also in Finance

Nashville, Tenn., October 15.—(AP)—Increases in membership and financial contributions in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, were reported today by the Rev. J. H. Taylor, treasurer of the church's board of missions, after a survey of Methodist activities of the past year.

The survey showed that Southern Methodists in 1928 paid $3,840,555 more for ministerial support, incidental expenses, conference collections, missions and Sunday school work than was paid in 1924. Total income of the church for the past year was said to have been $41,646,361.

DAWES ARRIVES FROM ENGLAND ON ILE DE FRANCE

New York, October 15.—(AP)—Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to the Court of St. James, arrived today on the Ile De France from Southampton for a short vacation, his first since going to London. He refused to discuss naval limitations. The purpose of his visit to this country, he said, was to confer with friends in Chicago regard the Century of Progress exposition to be held there in 1933.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Dawes and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Beman G. Dawes. They will sail on their return on October 30.

Flood Lights Will Shine On Candler Bldg. Tonight

For the first time in the history of Atlanta and probably of the entire south, floodlights will be used to illuminate the exterior of a skyscraper when Wednesday night the north side of the Candler building will be bathed in a golden haze of light as part of the city's celebration of "Light's Golden Jubilee." Every night during the remainder of the local celebration the floodlights will be played on the face of the structure, it is announced.

During the last two days workmen have been busy erecting a large battery of high-powered units of floodlighting equipment on the roof of the Peck building, across the street from the Candler building, and it was announced late Tuesday that all will be in readiness for turning on the lights Wednesday night.

SYNOD OF GEORGIA CONVENTION BEGUN BY PRESBYTERIANS

Rabun Gap, Ga., October 15.—(AP)—The opening session of the Synod of Georgia convention began here tonight at the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee school, maintained by the synod for mountain boys and girls.

The synod is the annual meeting of the representatives of Georgia's Presbyterian churches.

The opening sermon was delivered by the Rev. Dr. A. F. Carr, of Mt. Vernon, Ga. A communion service was conducted by the Rev. L. C. Lamotte, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Waycross, and the Rev. Dr. D. P. McGeachy, of Decatur.

The sessions of the synod will continue daily until Thursday night.

Far below the golden-hued face of the prominent structure will stretch the vast "cross of gold," formed by the double rows of cellophane-equipped white way lamps, running from Baker street on Peachtree to Mitchell on Whitehall and from the federal reserve bank on Marietta to an equal distance east of Five Points, which itself is the nucleus of Atlanta's "lighting up" activity, having its electrically lighted posters of Edison and his beautiful "weeping willow" display of jubilee-colored lights.

According to those in charge of local activities during the celebration, Atlanta's tribute to the aged inventor by far surpasses that of any other city in the south for symmetry and beauty of plan. The local jubilee lighting plans call for maintenance of the special cellophane equipment in the path of the "golden cross" throughout the remainder of October, although the climax of the celebration will be reached next Monday night when Edison, the guest of Henry Ford at Dearborn, Mich., re-enacts the construction of the first Edison light 50 years previously.

FLORIDA HOTEL SOLD AT AUCTION TO PROTECT BONDS

Orlando, Fla., October 15.—(AP)—The Angebilt hotel was sold at auction for $247,000 today under authorization of United States Referee in Bankruptcy W. N. Ellis. W. M. Hamer, Orlando, purchased the hotel as the representative of a bondholders' protective committee formed by owners of bonds to protect their interests in the property.

The property was recently appraised by a group of real estate men at $600,000.

The sale was conducted by William Beardsall as receiver. Bidding opened at $50,000, but was pushed up to the sale price.

Rid teeth of dangerous, glue-like FILM

Remove FILM daily. Ordinary brushing methods fail. Employ this special way

TOOTH DECAY is caused by germs. Pyococcus usually results from germs and tartar.

Germs are imprisoned in a dinky, glue-like coating on the teeth called film. There they breed by millions in contact with the teeth and tissues in every crevice.

Film clings so stubbornly ordinary ways are not successful in removing it. Use the special formula called Pepsodent. You instantly notice the difference in the way it feels. Film vanishes. Teeth become gleaming white. Yet Pepsodent acts gently. No pumice, harmful grit or crude abrasive—but a soft, creamy paste that is prescribed for the softest teeth and tenderest gums.

Representative Admits Attempt to Remove U. S. Expert Because of Aiding Measure.

Washington, October 15.—(AP)—Attempts of the pottery industry to have removed Frederick L. Koch, tariff commission expert, because of his attitude toward the industry in the framing of the tariff bill, were aired today by the senate labor investigating committee as it began its inquiry.

William Burgess, tariff adviser of the United States Pottery Association and a former subcommittee member of the tariff commission, told the committee he and others of the industry had protested to the commission that Koch was biased in favor of importers when he testified at a senate hearing on the tariff measure.

Koch delivered to Chairman Caraway of the committee a letter written by H. R. Wyllie, of Huntington, W. Va., to President Hoover, demanding dismissal of Koch because he was helping importers. The letter was turned over by the White House to the tariff commission, which has taken no action against its expert.

Questioned closely by Walsh, Burgess said the committee's inquiry into the activities of Burgess as a tariff adviser, the committee showed its intention to exert its power when it forced Burgess to name his other clients and the salaries he received from them despite a firm protest by the witness.

Burgess said he represented the other clients in custom cases in New York, and therefore he contended it was not the committee's business since he did not work for them at Washington. Upon insistence, he said he also represented the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, the National Electric Manufacturers' Association, a group of veteran manufacturers, a greeting card association, the National Tile Manufacturers' Association, and the Toy Association of America.

Asked about his salaries with the first two, Burgess said he received $1,800 a year from the wool association, $2,400 a year from the electrical people and $7,500 a year as tariff adviser to the pottery industry. He was not asked about his salary with the other organizations.

Called Upon Senators.

Burgess related that he had called upon several senators in his interest for including in the tariff bill an American valuation rather than a foreign value basis, mentioning Senators Smith, Utah; Hattfield and Goff, West Virginia; Watson, Indiana; Fess and Burton, Ohio, but he insisted he merely gave these senators information.

From this witness the committee received its first definition of lobbying. Burgess said he considered a lobbyist a man "who carries on the business of trying to put measures through congress and is not interested but in behalf of Tom, Dick and Harry from whom he receives pay." Burgess contended he was interested as a pottery industry lobbyist in the tariff legislation and therefore was not a lobbyist.

Tomorrow the committee will call representatives of the best sugar industry to hear both sides of the controversy over the proposed increase in the sugar duty. On Thursday officers of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association will be questioned about the employment of one of their men, Charles L. Eyanson, by Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, to assist him as a member of the finance committee in the framing of the tariff measure.

Koch Takes Stand.

Koch was the first witness of the day. He said he was a close personal friend of David Walker, an officer with a large Japanese chinaware importing concern, and had no apology to make for it. He said he frequently visited with Walker.

Burgess told the committee that Koch entered the finance committee hearings on the tariff bill in company with Walker and other importers and left with them. He also said just before the pottery hearing started Koch had met with Walker, Senator George, of Georgia, a democratic member of the finance committee, and another importer named Rosenfeld at a Washington hotel. Koch said he had met with these men on the Sunday night before the committee hearings on Wednesday. He said he also had visited the homes of some of the pottery manufacturers and on some occasions he was "chaperoned by Mr. Burgess."

Chairman Marvin and Commissioner Blossard, of the tariff commission, were questioned about the complaints against Koch. Each insisted that no action was contemplated unless formal, written charges were preferred against Koch. Each defended the right of Koch to assist members of congress in their work on the tariff bill. Koch told the committee that he had helped both sides on the tariff controversy in the senate and that "I draw no distinctions."

There was a tense moment in the committee room when Burgess declined to answer questions as to his connections with other industries. The refusal of Harry F. Schuler to answer a question put by a senate committee and his subsequent sentence to jail, where he is now confined, was recalled as Chairman Caraway asked Burgess:

"Do you decline to answer?"

"I am inclined to do so," Burgess replied to Caraway's direct inquiry.

"Yes or no," shot back Senator Caraway.

"I don't know about the consequences," Burgess, who is 72 years old, said haltingly.

"You'll find out the consequences," responded the committee chairman.

Burgess then told his story. Burgess again argued with Senator Walsh later as he was asked to name all the firms with which he was connected.

"Is it proper or fair for an adviser or lawyer to give the name of every client he has and what compensation he receives from them?" asked the witness.

Called Public Business.

"If it is in the public business," Walsh insisted.

"I represent these people only in the customs work in New York and do not represent any in Washington except the pottery industry," Burgess pleaded.

"Well," replied Senator Walsh, "you are dealing with the government's customs agents in New York, with the public's officers."

"This is an investigation of lobbying and I have not lobbied," persisted Burgess.

"Let's not quarrel," came back Walsh and Burgess named his clients. Burgess previously offered to give the names of clients to the committee if they were not made public.

Burgess said he had been tariff

UNDERWOOD JURY GETS CASE TODAY

A jury in Judge Virlin B. Moore's district of the superior court will get the case of Charles L. Underwood, 28-year-old waiter, charged with the murder of his 45-year-old former "sweetheart," Mrs. Bertha Mae Powell, some time today.

Underwood went on trial Tuesday morning. The state presented most of its evidence during the day and will conclude this morning. Underwood is expected to take the stand for a statement and the case given to the jury after argument.

Negro's Story Damning.

The testimony of Walter Eubanks, negro janitor at the 251 Woodward street where Mrs. Powell died of a slashed throat on the morning of August 15, was the most damning presented by the state.

Underwood and Mrs. Powell, Eubanks testified, were known to persons living in the neighborhood as "mother and son."

On the morning of Mrs. Powell's death, Eubanks said, Underwood came to him and asked him to go to her apartment, saying she had been drinking. Eubanks said Underwood waited at the foot of the apartment stairs while he investigated and found Mrs. Powell lying on her bed, dying.

"I ran downstairs and told Underwood your mother is up there with her throat cut," the negro said. "I asked Underwood if he wasn't going upstairs to help and he said, 'No, she might cut my throat.'"

Blood Found on Steps.

Eubanks testified to finding blood stains about the apartment and on the steps leading from it. It is the state's contention that Underwood, slashed Mrs. Powell's throat and left these blood stains as he departed from her home.

Lieutenant J. W. Barfield, of the detective department and Detective W. D. McGee also were important state witnesses Tuesday, both testifying to finding the blood stains on the apartment stairs and also to Underwood's clothing when he was arrested at a South Forsyth street rooming house shortly after Mrs. Powell's death.

Underwood took only a casual interest in the proceedings Tuesday. When the negro janitor was telling of him being known as Mrs. Powell's "son" he smiled faintly. Little interest is being shown in the trial, and only

FIVE POWERS ACCEPT NAVY REDUCTION CALL

Japan, Italy and France Join United States and Great Britain.

London, October 15.—(United News).—Japan, Italy and France today accepted Great Britain's invitation to attend a five-power naval conference next January.

Since the United States already had accepted today's action in Tokyo, Rome and Paris means that the world's five great sea powers will attempt at the beginning of the new year to extend to all classes of ships the limitation begun in the case of battleships at the Washington conference of 1921-22.

Japan alone of the three powers accepted the invitation without the suggestion of a proviso.

Italy's reply, while theoretically without reservations, reconfirmed Rome's willingness to reduce its naval armaments to the lowest figure provided no other continental European power was granted a larger ratio.

The French cabinet sent an acceptance in principle, "delaying the signing of a formal reply, outlining French reservations, until experts of the ministry of marine can present a report."

All three formal replies, it was understood here tonight, will complete the preliminary work done by Great Britain and the United States.

Not one will raise the specter of an Anglo-American hegemony to be opposed by an alliance of the smaller naval powers.

Italy's insistence on parity with France may prove a stumbling block, although French opposition to such parity has been waning slightly in recent days.

France, largest possessor of submarines, will oppose abolition of that defensive naval arm. Italy and Japan will support her position, although all three countries may be ready to accept some reduction.

Japan desires seven-tenths as many auxiliary craft as Great Britain and the United States, and wants an actual reduction instead of mere limitation of navies, but hopes to reach an agreement on those aims before the conference opens next January.

Fuller Rites Today.

Funeral services for E. F. Fuller, who died Monday at the residence of his son, S. L. Fuller, 1117 McKinnon street, will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning from the residence with the Rev. J. W. O. McKibben officiating. The body will be taken at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon to New York city for burial there in Woodlawn cemetery.

A handful of spectators was in court. The prosecution is being directed by Assistant Solicitor General Ed. A. Stephens while Underwood is represented by John W. Thomas.

U. S. Appeals Court in Session in Atlanta

Federation of Labor Votes To Use Force and Funds In Unionization of South

Toronto, Ont., October 15.—(AP)—

Organized labor's forces and funds were pledged today to a campaign for unionizing the south by unanimous action of the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Delegates were moved to their decision by a series of appeals relating to the situation of textile mill workers, particularly in Tennessee and North Carolina, but their action took a broad scope, directing all crafts unions to center organizers in the south the coming year and setting up a special fund to back the campaign projected.

Shootings Cited.

Formally, the resolution presented by the United Textile Workers and adopted declared it impossible for any "single union to carry on the task," cited the "cold-blooded shooting down of our members by sheriffs at Marion, N. C.," as a challenge to the entire American labor movement.

It asked the federation to set up a special committee of craft union executives to formulate policy and finance a general organization campaign.

Committee Named.

William Green, in promptly naming Burke and Canavan with others on a special fund raising committee, expressed the judgment that the "federation's work of the last 25 years" had prepared the field.

"We are going into the south because the workers of the south are appealing for it," he said. "And not at the behest of northern employers or anyone. But the workers there must remember that they must follow the royal road of self-dependence to achieve the organization that exists in the north. They cannot merely call a strike and then look for the bread wagon from the north. But we can furnish the spirit and the organization."

Margaret Bowen, a Tennessee mill worker, was one of the speakers, as were Gertrude McNally and Matilda Lindsay, both associated with the federal women's organization. Women particularly denied that southern workers had any bent toward communism.

Andrew Furuseth, president of the Seamen's union, asserted the federation had to proceed because "low wages in the south are being used to depress your wage scales in the north."

Joseph Burke, head of the paper workers, offered $1,000 in behalf of his organization, and William Canavan, of the theatrical mechanics, promptly moved that the federation pledge $1,000,000, or 35 cents per member, "as a beginning." Dr. Worth Tippy, representing the Federal Council of Churches, filed with the convention a statement of sympathy with the intended campaign in behalf of that body.

Fort Valley, Ga., October 15.—(AP) Mrs. Emmett Houser, 60, one of the best known women of Fort Valley, died at 9:10 o'clock tonight after an illness of several months.

Before her marriage Mrs. Houser was Miss Mamie Mathews, the daughter of Captain J. W. Mathews, of the Confederate army, and a niece of Judge Henry A. Mathews, of superior court. If she had lived until November 6 she would have been married 40 years.

Besides her husband, Emmett Houser, Fort Valley attorney and former clerk of courts and former member of the legislature from Peach county, she is survived by three sons and four daughters. Harold, Roderick and Claude Houser; Mrs. Mary Belle Steinhauer, of Boston; Mrs. Helen Wodall, Miss Jamie Houser and Miss Ford Houser, of Fort Valley.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday.

DRIVE FOR NEW MEMBERS PLANNED BY D. A. V. GROUP

At the regular meeting Tuesday night of the Betty Harrison Jones chapter, No. 1, D. A. V., plans were made to inaugurate an extensive membership campaign. It was brought out at this meeting that there are several hundred disabled American veterans in Atlanta and vicinity who are not affiliated with this organization, the prime object of which is to benefit and assist disabled American veterans in this district.

Headquarters for the campaign have been established in the office of Senior Vice Commander Harry T. Barfield, Room 512, at 10 1-2 Auburn avenue. Every disabled veteran in Atlanta and vicinity is not only invited, but urged to join this organization. Membership blanks can be obtained from H. F. Lester and Fred R. Stokes, Room 512, at 10 1-2 Auburn avenue, or from S. C. Talton, Engine House No. 8, at Spring street and Carnegie way; also from Julius Setze of the veterans' bureau on Peachtree street.

Announcement was made that the next regular meeting would be devoted to social activities and plans are under way for the presentation of entertainment features, including several well-known dancers. A buffet supper will be served, and all disabled American veterans, whether members or not, will be invited to attend this meeting.

When IS a Wool Blanket ---and Why!

When you read advertisements of Davison blankets remember—

That we do not advertise them as "all-wool" unless they test 98% wool.

That the predominant fibre will always appear first in the description; that is, it is called wool-and-cotton when there is more wool than cotton . . . and vice-versa.

"Wool-and-cotton" means that a blanket is at least 50% wool.

We do not advertise blankets as cotton-and-wool unless they contain a minimum of 10% wool.

With a total of 31,903 pounds of air mail transported over the Atlanta-New York route of Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., during the month of September, an increase of 126 per cent was registered over the same month of last year, according to figures given out by postoffice officials. During September, 1928, the company's planes handled 13,946 pounds of mail between the two points, the net increase in postage being 17,037. Air mail handled over the company's Atlanta-Miami route for last month aggregated 9,572 pounds, for a substantial gain each month since the line was opened last December.

Roger Q. Williams, of New York, to Rome fame, Tuesday morning took off at Candler field in his amphibian, a Columbia Triad, for St. Louis, where he expects to join the National Air Tour. Williams flew in here Saturday with the other planes in the squadron but was unable to leave Monday morning because of a broken longeron.

A new aid to aviation was put into operation Tuesday at LaGrange, where 20,000 employees of the Callaway cotton mills and their families gathered to dedicate a combination clock tower and airplane beacon, erected to the memory of Fuller E. Callaway, founder of the organization. The tower, which rises 97 feet above the ground in Callaway, is surrounded by a revolving beacon of 8,000 candlepower and a stationary directional light, pointing to Callaway field, two miles away. Following the ceremonies, the crowd repaired to the field, where stunt flying by several visiting aviators was witnessed.

Atlanta postoffice authorities announced Tuesday that they had received from the postoffice department in Washington that additional air mail service between New York and Atlanta, scheduled to have become effective Tuesday night, had been postponed indefinitely. The notice gave no reason for the postponement, it was said, and contained no intimation of the date for inauguration of the extra service. An earlier announcement had said that two planes would be added to the Atlanta-New York line, one flying the mail southward from New York and another northward from Atlanta Tuesday night.

DEFENSE OPENS FIGHT FOR FALL'S ACQUITTAL

Government Wins Right To Introduce Sinclair Deal Evidence.

Washington, October 15.—(AP)—The defense of Albert B. Fall to charges that he accepted a bribe of $100,000 while secretary of the interior was commenced in the District of Columbia supreme court today after the government had introduced testimony showing that Harry F. Sinclair had turned over to Fall's cattle company a total of $288,500, subsequent to receiving the Teapot Dome oil lease. Fall is charged with accepting the bribe from Edward L. Doheny six months prior to awarding to the oil man's company the contract to construct oil storage tanks at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and a lease on the Elk Hills naval oil reserve in California. He will seek to prove through Doheny that the money was a loan.

Introduction of the Sinclair testimony was regarded as a blow to the defense. It was the first time a connected story of both leases has been placed before a jury, and showed Fall's interests received a total of $390,000 in 1921 and 1922 from Sinclair and Doheny. A jury which heard only the Doheny story acquitted Fall and Doheny of conspiracy, while another jury which heard only the Sinclair story found Sinclair not guilty of conspiracy with Fall.

First Airplane Salesroom Opened Here

The first airplane salesroom in Atlanta, and probably in the southeast, was put into operation Tuesday, when a new floor "165," for which Beeler Blevins, well-known Atlanta pilot, distributor in Georgia, was placed on the floor of the Yarbrough Motor Company, local Studebaker dealer. This is a distinct innovation for Atlanta, as far as airplane selling is concerned, and was adopted to obviate the necessity of a trip to the airport by would-be customers, Blevins said Tuesday. The trim plane, which is powered with a J-6 Wright Whirlwind of 165 horsepower, was flown here from the factory at Troy, Ohio, by Blevins last week and Monday, with its wings removed, was towed to the automobile building. The unique display was said to have attracted much attention Tuesday afternoon. Those in the picture above, shown standing in front of the plane, are, left to right: W. D. Shupe, sales manager of the Yarbrough Motor Company; Howard Holzer, Bob Coleman, Austin Abbott and Beeler Blevins. Two Waco, one piloted by John Livingston and the other by Art Davis, were leading the National Air Tour, in points scored, at the time of the tour's visit to Atlanta.

Flood Waters Near Miami Take One Life and Wreak Heavy Losses to Property

Conditions at Hialeah Still Alarming — Great Damage to Fruit Crops Reported.

Miami, Fla., October 15.—(AP)—The first death as a result of the flood condition at Hialeah was reported to the police late today when an unidentified negro truck driver was killed by electricity. He Albury, white, 35, of Hialeah, suffered from electric shock at the time but was not seriously injured.

The negro backed his truck into a high tension wire, charging the water around the truck. Water level in the immense rain created lake north and west of Miami tonight was reported to be at the same height as that reported Monday night. Light, intermittent rain in Miami and the western and northern part of Dade county during the day was about equal in amount of water to that drained from the area by the canals and Miami river, it was estimated.

SOME DAMAGE AT GOULDS.

A survey of the Redland district in the south central section of the county and at Kendall and Goulds by the board of county commissioners showed that there has been no great damage to buildings and no loss of cattle.

W. Cecil Watson, chairman of the board, said tonight that the flood water has receded in several places in the districts inspected. Debris along the rights of way of county roads shows that the water has receded in places, he said. At no place was the water reported higher than on Monday.

Red Cross to Aid.

Efforts in preventing additional water running into Hialeah include the construction of a dike on Red road north of Miami canal, where the road had been washed away Monday. Hundreds of bags of sand were piled into the breach and on either side, while heavy timbers were placed as supports.

Other county employees continued to construct temporary bridges over drainage cuts made in six roads. J. C. Hunsicker, of Tampa, state director of the American Legion, is scheduled to arrive in Miami tomorrow by airplane from Tampa. He will aid the other relief workers and in the event help is needed from the national legion funds will supervise the expenditures in the stricken district.

Hialeah sanitary squads tomorrow will start spraying disinfectant throughout the community and will inspect and care for all septic tanks. National Red Cross and American Legion officials are co-operating in rendering whatever aid is needed in the Hialeah section. Joe Frank, head of the county legion forces, made a tour of the districts immediately north and west of Hialeah. He said he did not find a home in which the family requested to be removed, nor did any family request provisions or fuel.

Effective with last trains Sunday, October 20th, Trains 41 and 42 between Atlanta and West Point, will be discontinued. Passengers heretofore handled on those trains will be accommodated in buses of the Georgia Highway Transport Company on practically the same schedule.

DOCTORS MAKE REPLY TO MAYO'S CHARGES

Resent "Lack of Humanity" Statement of Rochester Surgeon.

Chicago, October 15.—(AP)—Charges made yesterday by Dr. W. J. Mayo, eminent Rochester, Minn., surgeon, that hospitals use "too much salesmanship and not enough humanity," brought spirited replies today from doctors attending the 11th annual congress of the American College of Surgeons.

Dr. Warren P. Morrill, of Portland, Maine, director of the Maine General hospital, said that "such ruthless wrecking of the public's confidence in their only refuge in time of illness cannot fail to do harm."

"We are familiar with the surgeon who seeks self-aggrandizement at the expense of the hospital," Dr. Morrill said. "But when a charter member and responsible officer of this college takes this method of getting the front page, the public is entitled to know the real reasons behind the admittedly high cost of getting well."

Offering suggestions to surgeons for helping reduce hospital costs, Dr. Morrill urged that doctors not all demand the same hour for their operations.

GROGER JAILED AS RAIDERS FIND WHISKY MATERIAL

Louisville, Ky., October 15.—(AP)—Supplies and materials sufficient to make 27,000 gallons of liquor were confiscated in a raid on a grocery store here today and Max Kushner, proprietor, was placed under $1,500 bond on charge of possession of property designed for the manufacture of liquor.

The raid was made when prohibition agents received a report that two men were loading an automobile with liquor-making ingredients in the rear of the grocery. Henry Caves, 45, and Robert Frank, 41, were arrested and charged with possession of property designed for the manufacture of liquor. Their automobile was seized.

Agents reported that they found in the store 143,000 pounds of corn sugar, 40,000 pounds of rye meal, barley malt, yeast, cracked corn, cans and 42 cases empty pint bottles labeled "Old Taylor."

Compare features to learn how much more Oakland gives for its price

UNTIL you have actually compared today's Oakland All-American Six with other cars of its price you cannot appreciate how much more Oakland is offering for your money. For Oakland provides a combination of advanced engineering features which no other medium-priced car in the world has matched.

878 individual comparisons have been made between the All-American Six and twenty other medium-priced cars. Of these comparisons, Oakland proves to be definitely superior in 451 or 51.37 per cent. The twenty other cars combined are at best equal to Oakland in 382 comparisons or 43.50 per cent. And 13 of the 20 are higher-priced than Oakland!

Before you buy any car within $300 of Oakland's price, be sure to come in and see the complete results of this comparison. And when you have seen them, we will clinch the proof of Oakland superiority with a demonstration—convincing you beyond any question that this is America's finest medium-priced automobile!

WORKERS FOR CHEST
DRIVE MEET FRIDAYPlans for Next Week's Campaign Will Be Discussed.

Atlanta's volunteer army of workers in the general public canvass in the appeal for public support of the Community Chest and its 39 societies have been called to mobilize for preliminary discussion of the campaign Friday evening at 6 o'clock on the Ansley road.

The zero hour of this army is set for Monday morning, when the general canvass is to continue through October 25, by which day the campaign organization is confident the goal of $450,000 will be reached.

"The sum which we will seek is the lowest possible minimum for effective operation of Atlanta's agencies of welfare," said Roy A. Crow, general campaign chairman, last night. "Atlanta has never yet contributed an amount sufficient for a complete program of social service, and human suffering and curtailment of welfare are natural results."

For several weeks preliminary canvasses have been conducted quietly among business houses and individuals able to make large gifts, with excellent results, according to J. C. Malone, chairman of the advance gifts committee and Jackson P. Dick, head of the groups division. In the general public canvass next week, to be directed by Fred A. Jordan, every man and woman in Atlanta will be given an opportunity to contribute to the work that is every person's obligation.

One fruit of the preliminary canvass was announced Tuesday in the gift of $1,000 by the brokerage firm of Gray & Wilmerding, members of the New York Stock Exchange, through the manager of its Atlanta branch, E. L. Stephenson. The check for this amount was delivered to Mr. Dick by Mr. Stephenson as the company's voluntary contribution and as an expression of its approval of the businesslike methods of the Community Chest, with its record for efficiency and economy.

At the rally-dinner of campaign workers Friday night, which will be part of the contribution of the hotel to the campaign, division leaders, their captains and lieutenants will meet the workers to serve under them and discuss methods of canvass and generally seek to "sell" the Chest idea, its purpose and methods, to the workers.

NEW PIEDMONT
READY TO SERVE
ATLANTA PUBLIC

Formal opening of the Piedmont hotel, 500-room hostelry which has been entirely reconstructed on the interior at an expenditure of $1,000,000, was seen Tuesday when the new structure was thrown open to the public.

In addition to the costly remodeling of the building, Cecil Harrison, lessee of the hotel, stated Tuesday that $325,000 has been spent for new furnishings that are expected to make the hotel one of the most modern in the south.

The personnel of the hotel was announced by Mr. Cannon, who also operates the Henry Grady and Imperial hotels, to include the following: well-known hotel men: J. G. Brandon, executive vice president; O. W. Duggan, manager; H. F. Harrison, assistant manager; N. R. Hendricks, chief clerk; R. E. Page, Jr., clerk; Miss Mary Simpson, manager of coffee shop; H. E. Stanley, steward; Mrs. Lily London, housekeeper, and H. C. Geiger, auditor.

MRS. RUTH WADSEN
DIES ON TUESDAY AT LOUISVILLE, GA.

Louisville, Ga., October 15.—(Special.)—Mrs. Ruth Wadsen died here early today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Foster Cheek, with whom she had resided since the death of her husband, the late P. L. Wadsen.

Mrs. Wadsen had been in poor health for some time. She was 68 years old. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Sampson Newcome, of Wadley, and Mrs. Cheek, of Louisville, and three sons, Homer L. Wadsen, of Columbus, and J. P. and P. E. Wadsen, of Louisville. Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at Providence Baptist church at La Grange.

PROH OFFENDERS
ARE FINED $800
BY JUDGE WOOD

More than $8 a gallon was paid Tuesday in criminal court of Atlanta by two defendants for alleged possession of whiskey. The pair were fined a total of $800.

T. C. Hindman and J. W. Willis, charged with possession of 95 gallons of whiskey on Piedmont avenue, were fined $400 each when they pleaded guilty in Judge Wood's court. Both of the fines were paid. Judge Wood also placed suspended sentences of 12 months each over the defendants.

George C. Blount,
Highway Engineer,
Given Promotion

The state highway department Tuesday announced appointment of George C. Blount, division engineer, as chief maintenance engineer.

Mr. Blount, who has served as a division engineer for nine years, is said to be one of the most competent engineers with the department. Recently he received high commendation for his work in the flooded area around Augusta.

He has had charge of the department's work in the Augusta division and had headquarters in that city. His new duties will bring him into the engineering offices at East Point.

The position which he will fill has not been occupied for the past several years. In it Mr. Blount will have entire charge of all maintenance work, which heretofore has been directly under control of division superintendent.

Mr. Blount will be succeeded at Augusta by E. C. Gartner, who has been attached to that division for some time.

"HOME-COMING" DAY

Penn's fifth year as pastor of the congregation.

Advantage of Chest
System Is OutlinedBy H. M. ATKINSON,
President Atlanta Community Chest.

In Atlanta—a city of over 300,000 population—only 15,500 individuals and business firms contributed last year to the Community Chest—the organization which is appealing once a year only for funds for the support of the 38 social welfare agencies of the city.

The Community Chest is a business organization formed for the sole purpose of seeing that funds contributed for social service work are distributed through the proper channels. Only through such an organization can each welfare agency receive the funds to which it is just entitled and the public be assured that contributions are spent properly. It is far better to have one central organization with one appeal a year than 38 different continuous appeals.

City Government
Operation Cost
Shows Reduction

Governmental costs for Atlantans was $1.07 less in 1928 than they were the preceding year, being $30.32 per capita, according to figures released Tuesday by the United States department of commerce. Cost of operation of various departments of the city government was $7,734,464 in 1928.

Recorded on which the figures of the department are based were supplied by B. Graham West, city comptroller, and his assistants.

Although cost of government in Atlanta shows a decrease this year as compared with last, the record also discloses the fact that municipal government costs in Atlanta have more than doubled since 1914, when they were $14.57 per capita.

Not included in the expenditures for general government of the city were the following items: Operation and maintenance of public service enterprises (waterworks, auditorium, cemeteries, etc.), $966,708; interest and debt, $737,300; and outlays for permanent improvements $3,501,996, making total payments for the year, both from current revenue and from bond funds, $12,940,468.

Total revenue of the city in 1928 was $11,003,159, or $43.15 per capita, of which 22.9 per cent came from property taxes.

Over the decade from 1917 to 1927 property tax revenue increased 114.2 per cent, while from 1927 to 1928 it increased 1.8 per cent.

Per capita payments of property taxes were $20.67 in 1928; $22.81 in 1927, and $13.52 in 1917.

The total funded or fixed debt outstanding December 31, 1928, was $46,029,000. Of this amount $3,618,000 was for public service enterprises. The net indebtedness (funded or fixed debt less sinking fund assets) was $14,020,050, or $54.96 per capita. In 1927 the per capita net debt was $48.99, and in 1917, $21.68. The increased per capita net debt reported for 1928 was due to bond supply system.

The assessed valuation of property in Atlanta subject to ad valorem taxes for city corporation was $392,755,842. The levy for all purposes was $10,003,713, of which $5,801,787, or 58.9 per cent, was levied for the city corporation; $2,284,977, or 22.8 per cent, for the state, and $2,826,949, or 28.3 per cent, for the county. The per capita tax levy for the city, state and county was $39.21 in 1928, $31.54 in 1927 and $22.37 in 1917.

SHELLMAN IS SITE
OF A. M. E. SESSION
FOR S. W. GEORGIA

Shellman, Ga., October 15.—(Special.)—The South Georgia Conference of the A. M. E. church gathers here this week in a five-day session. Bishop W. A. Fountain, D. D., presiding. The daily meetings will convene in St. Paul A. M. E. church, the Rev. J. B. Jackson pastor.

This is the largest conference in the state and has six presiding elder districts. The following presiding elders will have pastors make district reports: W. A. Fountain, Rev. J. L. Stringer, D. D.; Dr. J. T. Barr, Dr. J. M. Dennis, Dr. C. C. Crouch, Dr. F. M. Johnson, Dr. E. D. Mitchell.

The South Georgia Conference, just closed, set the pace for the other seven in the state for loyalty to the call to duty. Over one thousand dollars was laid on the table on last Friday night for the support of Morris Brown university, when President Fountain, of the university, told the need and why the institution should be supported.

Dr. S. H. Giles, dean of the school, represented the seminary work and appealed for an awakening for religious leadership.

CITY HALL WIRING
COUNCIL BATTLE

A councilmanic battle over installation of trawline in the new $1,000,000 city hall loomed Tuesday on the heels of a vote by the special city hall committee of council to accept a rebate of $1,500 from electrical wire manufacturers and permit installation already made to remain in the building.

Contractors, it was said Tuesday, were installing Italian trawline in the new city hall building. The ordinance making it mandatory to use Georgia marble solely in erection of the new municipal building.

Mayor J. N. Bagley vetoed action of city council in special session October 10 in ratifying the order of Mr. Precher, which was to have all electrical wiring pulled out of the city hall building because it failed to come up to specifications, and at the same time vetoed another ordinance establishing a clarified specification for the product to be placed in the building.

His action was predicated on assurance of C. J. Kreiger, special agent of the Underwriters' Laboratories, of New York, that the wire which is now in the building has stood a much better test than common code wire which the organization sanctions.

Proponents of Italian trawline were preparing Tuesday to take their fight to the board of city council in its regular meeting slated for Monday afternoon.

The meeting will be held in the club's ballroom at 12:30 o'clock.

STATE HOPES TO HIKE
TOBACCO TAX INCOME$81,257 Paid Last Month.
$100,000 Needed for Pensions.

The full force of the teeth set into the tobacco tax law by the legislature will be exerted to bring revenues under the act up to $100,000 monthly.

An announcement to that effect was made Tuesday by John M. Vandiver, head of the revenue department, following a statement of tobacco tax revenues for the month ending October 1. A total of $81,257.07 was paid into the state, representing an increase of about $20,000 over the monthly average revenues of the past year.

This figure, Captain Vandiver said, must be increased to $100,000 monthly by January 1, if increased appropriations for Confederate pensioners are to be paid promptly.

On October 1, when tobacco dealers operating without licenses became delinquent, the revenue department, following a statement of tobacco tax revenues for the month ending October 1, was not instituted against those who had not purchased them until the department had filled accumulated applications for licenses.

This lenient program, Captain Vandiver said, must stop. The law will be enforced vigorously in every section of the state. All dealers who have not a license prominently displayed will be prosecuted.

Captain Vandiver's estimate of the amount of revenues necessary from the tobacco tax law was founded on a tentative budget of revenues for pension purposes recognized by the legislature in making appropriations.

The amount of pensions was increased from $50 per quarter to $30 per month, effective January 1. It was estimated that $2,500,000 would be necessary for their payment.

To meet this an appropriation of $1,300,000 per year was made. Revenues for the other $1,200,000 was placed on tobacco tax revenues.

The proceeds of the past month's collecting were turned over to the state treasury Tuesday to go toward meeting present pension needs. Payment of pensions for the third quarter, amounting to approximately $835,000, has been paid since October 1.

Payment Soon.

At that time it was indicated that payment would be made within the course of a few weeks.

Inquiry Tuesday developed that the pensions have not yet been paid and that funds were not available with which to pay them. Little certainty as to when the warrants would be issued was expressed. The only indication of when they would be paid was from a source close to Governor L. G. Hardman, who stated that it was the governor's plan that pensioners would be among the first to "sweat about the table" when money became available in the treasury.

Not only is the state behind in its pension payments, it was stated, but is behind in all payments. Schools and other institutions are unable to draw their full appropriations. The responsibility for the situation was placed upon the legislature of 1927, which, it was said, made generous appropriations without creating revenues with which to pay them.

CITY MOTOR BUS
ORDINANCE IS HIT
IN PLEA TO COURT

Constitutionality of the ordinance passed by city council on October 7 to prohibit motor buses from using portions of Atlanta's streets was attacked Tuesday in a petition filed in Fulton superior court by the City of Atlanta, Inc., Judge Edgar P. Pomeroy issued a temporary order to restrain the city from enforcing the ordinance.

The plaintiff operates buses to De- catur, East Point, College Park and Fairburn from a Walton and Cone street terminal, and was recently granted a certificate of public convenience and necessity by the Georgia public service commission, the petition points out. The plaintiff charges that the city has no power to prohibit the buses from operating, but that sole power over the bus lines is in the public service body. The plaintiff charges that passage of the ordinance is an effort to destroy the petitioner's business.

KIWANIS CLUB
HEARS PELHAM'S
TALK ON TRUSTS

H. F. Pelham, vice president of the Citizens & Southern National Bank, discussed "Trusts" at the meeting of Atlanta Kiwanis club Tuesday noon. There are two main obligations which a man owes to members of his family, Mr. Pelham said. One is the care and maintenance of his wife during her lifetime, before and after his demise. The other, to his children, is to provide for them, only when they are capable of handling their share, and after the income obligation to the widow has been discharged.

The laws of descent and distribution and alimony bear out his theory, Mr. Pelham said. Our system of jurisprudence prohibits property from being tied up indefinitely and establishes the theory that a man should distribute to his children at some time the major part of his accumulated wealth. The important part that trust departments of modern financial institutions play in one's affairs after they are dead was pointed out by Mr. Pelham. A man can never get out of his own will by peace of mind; someone else will get his property, he said.

AFTER MISTRIAL

An indictment charging Walter Harwell, former city marshal of Atlanta, with an attack on Steve Glass, former deputy marshal of the city, was dropped Tuesday when Judge John D. Humphries signed an order nolle prosequing the case. On a recent trial of the case the jury was unable to agree and a mistrial resulted.

Plans for Bus Station Offered
To Service BoardPlans for an elaborate bus terminal, to serve passengers on motor lines in much the same fashion as railway stations serve train passengers, have been submitted to the Georgia public service commission in anticipation of a hearing set for November 10, it was announced Tuesday.

Several of the operating companies have submitted plans for the proposed station. Among them is one to erect a terminal on top of the Georgia railroad freight depot at the intersection of Alabama and Spring streets, with an approach from the Spring street viaduct. This location is convenient to the present railway terminal, and to the new union depot now under construction.

Another proposal is for a joint station for all lines operating out of Atlanta on Alabama street property running from Forsyth street to the Spring street viaduct.

Other suggestions include terminals at the corner of Cone and Luckie streets; Cone and Poplar streets; and on Williams street, on property in the rear of the store of the Davidson-Paxon Company.

Chairman James A. Perry, of the commission, stated that all of the proposals would be given full consideration with a view to public convenience and comfort. He pointed out that bus lines are now operating from Atlanta to New York, Miami, Chicago, Detroit and other cities and that proper bus terminals are a necessary incident to growth of the service.

MAN WHO CUT OFF
HAND COMMITTED TO INSANE ASYLUM

James R. Payne, who recently cut off his hand in Dalton, Tuesday was committed to the state asylum at Milledgeville on the verdict of a lunacy commission appointed by Judge Thomas H. Jeffries, Fulton county ordinary. Payne, who appeared in criminal court of Atlanta on a vagrancy charge and was held by Judge Jesse M. Wood for investigation of his mentality.

BAD ATTACKS OF INDIGESTION KEPT HIM FROM SLEEP

When a well-known business man like J. R. Gresham comes out with an awful, gnawing pain in the pit of his stomach, he knows he is suffering from indigestion. He knows that the remarkable benefits he received from Sargon—there can be no earthly doubt of the real, genuine merit contained in this new, scientific preparation. Mr. Gresham has been in the mercantile business for thirty-five years and has a men's furnishings store at 1148 Euclid avenue, Little Five Points. He lives at 1039 Colquitt street and his many friends will read with interest how Sargon brought him new health and strength.

"My stomach was in such a condition, nearly everything I ate soured and I'd taste the undigested food for hours after meals. Sometimes I'd have an awful, gnawing pain in the pit of my stomach and often woke up in the middle of the night suffering. I'd have to get up, drink some hot water and force myself to vomit in order to clear out my stomach and get relief. This happened time and again and I'd feel so weak and exhausted the next day, I wasn't fit for work. I can hardly remember when I haven't been troubled with constipation and, although I tried one laxative after another, my system stayed in a poisoned, run-down condition. Aches and pains set up in my back and shoulders and little acid blisters broke out on my skin.

"The first real, lasting relief I ever got was when I started taking Sargon. In a few days I was entirely free of constipation. They are easy to take and leave no disagreeable after effects.

"I frankly and candidly give Sargon full credit for my present good health and I'm making this statement so others may know of its splendid merit."

The Sargon Man at Jacobs' main store, 14 Marietta street, is meeting the public daily and telling just what this revolutionary new medicine meant to weak, sick, debilitated men and women. He cites actual facts for Sargon's great reputation is based on actual results accomplished; not empty promises. Sargon may be obtained at all Jacobs' drug stores throughout Atlanta.—(adv.)

Employees of Callaway Mills Erect Memorial To Fuller E. Callaway

Clock Tower and Airplane Beacon Dedicated With Impressive Ceremonies at LaGrange.

LaGrange, Ga., October 15.—(Special.)—Twenty thousand persons, employees of the Callaway Cotton Mills and their families, today dedicated a clock tower and airplane beacon which they erected to the memory of Fuller E. Callaway, founder of the business.

The tower, rising 97 feet above the ground in Callaway park, is patterned after the Campanile of St. Mark's in Venice. It is built of shaded red brick with limestone trim and a spire of green slate surmounted by a revolving beacon, capable of developing 2,000,000 candlepower. On each of the four faces of the tower there is a large clock.

This memorial is unique in that the idea for it originated with an employee of the mills, the funds for it, approximately $10,000, were raised by the employees and the whole project was executed by them.

When the idea was conceived last spring it was planned to dedicate the memorial on July 15, Mr. Callaway's birthday. It was not possible, however, to complete the work by that date and the ceremony of unveiling and dedicating was postponed until today.

Cason J. Callaway, son of the founder and now the head of the mills, declared a general holiday and announced that hereafter the mills would close each year on his father's birthday with pay to all workers in order that the spirit manifested by them today may be perpetuated.

Dedication of the monument took place this morning after an hour's concert by a band from Atlanta. The ceremonies were opened by the singing of "America," led by C. W. Coleman, director of the Callaway Mills schools. The dedicatory address was made by the Rev. Walter P. Binn, pastor of the First Baptist church of LaGrange.

G. T. Williamson, an employee of the Callaway mills for a quarter of a century who first conceived the idea for a memorial, presented the key to the tower to the Callaway family on behalf of the employees. It was accepted by Cason J. Callaway, who, in a brief address voiced his appreciation of the loyalty and devotion of the men and women who made the vast mills possible.

Little Virginia Callaway pulled the cord that unveiled the tower at the base of the shaft. It was inscribed: "Dedicated to the memory of Fuller E. Callaway, this tower is erected by his associates and friends—the employees in the enterprises he established—July 15, 1929."

A prayer opening the simple ceremony was offered by the Rev. Wylie Arnold, of Greenville, Ga. Benediction was pronounced by the Rev. G. W. Hamilton, of Hogansville. Hatton Loveloy, LaGrange attorney, presided as master of ceremonies.

At 12 o'clock noon the bell in the tower tolled for the first time. The airplane beacon, with a revolving light and a stationary directional light pointing to Callaway field two miles away, was turned on at 6 p. m.

A light luncheon was served following the dedication ceremonies and the Atlanta band played. In the afternoon the crowd assembled at Callaway field where Doug Davis and his troupe of flyers from Atlanta performed stunt flying.

BURLAP AND JUTE EXCHANGE OPENS IN GOTHAM TODAY

New York, October 15.—(AP)—New York's newest commodity exchange, the New York Burlap and Jute Exchange, will start operations tomorrow when futures trading in burlap and sugar bags will be inaugurated. Although burlap and sugar bags will be the first two commodities traded in it, it is expected that jute, hemp and possibly kopak (fibres obtained from the seeds of silk-cotton trees grown in Java), will be listed in the near future.

Trading in burlap and sugar bags for future delivery will be confined to the current month and the 11 succeeding calendar months. Delivery, certification, etc., will be along lines similar to those used in other commodity exchanges.

BANKS LAUNCH EFFORT TO EXTEND SERVICES Kathryn Frazier Wins Red Cross Poster Contest

Three-Month Campaign Has $2,000,000 as Goal.

In an effort to extend their services to a larger number of customers, the Atlanta & Lowry National Bank and the Trust Company of Georgia have launched a three-month campaign with a quota of $2,000,000 as the goal.

The campaign was launched at a meeting of officers, directors and employees of the banks held Monday night at the Ansley hotel. The meeting was attended by about 300 persons, Robert F. Maddox, chairman of the Atlanta board, presiding.

Mr. Maddox spoke very enthusiastically in regard to the campaign, placing the responsibility for the success or failure of the effort entirely with the workers. In reviewing the growth of the bank, Mr. Maddox told of his organization when Atlanta had less than 10,000 population.

At that time the capital stock was $100,000. Now its capital investment exceeds $13,000,000 and combined resources total more than $75,000,000. Mr. Maddox pointed out that the bank obtained the first national bank charter granted in the state of Georgia.

T. M. Glenn, president of the Trust company, also spoke, expressing appreciation for the large attendance at the meeting and calling on all the officers, directors and employees to cooperate to the fullest extent to assure the success of the campaign.

Three trophies are offered by the bank for the winning teams in the campaign. One known as the Atlanta & Lowry Trust Company of Georgia trophy will be competed for by nine officer-director-stockholder teams, as will the Maddox trophy. The Glenn trophy will be competed for by 18 employee teams.

The 36 teams in the campaign organization are each headed by a captain assisted by two or more lieutenants. Captains for the 18 director-officer-stockholder teams are: Robert F. Maddox, Thomas K. Glenn, J. S. Kennedy, John H. Johnson, H. Warner, Martin, A. M. Bergstrom, James F. Alexander, Robert G. Stephens, C. E. Allen, Ivan E. Allen, William Candler, James L. Dickey, Carlos H. Mason, Frank C. Owens, Frederic J. Paxon, S. Y. Tupper, W. C. Wardlaw and George W. West.

Lieutenants to serve under these captains are: S. C. Dobbs, Harold Hirsch, J. J. Spaulding, Edward H. Luman, William C. Bradley, John E. Talmadge, Albert E. Thornton, Henry R. Durand, J. R. COURT RESTRAINS PICTURE PEOPLE ON UNIFORM LEASE

New York, October 15.—(AP)—United States District Judge Thomas D. Thacher today upheld the government's demand for an injunction restraining 43 defendants in the motion picture industry from unlawful enforcement of uniform lease contracts and arbitration agreements relating to motion picture distribution and display.

In a written opinion Judge Thacher said the federal anti-trust law had been violated, but indicated that contract provisions might be revised and brought into conformity with the statute.

"Upon settlement of the decree," the judge wrote, "the parties may suggest provision, if such be feasible, under which uniform contracts containing arbitration clauses may be voluntarily adopted by the members of the industry without coercion or other unlawful restraint."

STORY TELLERS OF NATION MEET HERE THURSDAY

Story tellers of the nation will gather in Atlanta for a three-day session when the eastern division of the National Story Tellers' League opens its conference Thursday at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel. This marks the first time since organization of the league that a conference has been held south of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Adlyn M. Keifer, of Harrisburg, Pa., will preside at the local gathering. Among the speakers scheduled to appear on the conference program are Willis A. Sutton, H. Reid Hunter, Dr. W. W. Memminger, Miss Daphne Carrara, Dr. John B. Sale and Margaret Becker Kulo.

Great enthusiasm has been shown by the high grades in the private and public schools of Atlanta in the poster contest which has been put on by the American Red Cross. A prize is to be awarded October 29 to the school sending the poster most appropriate for the 1930 roll call and this poster will be used in every chapter of the A. R. C. in America. Twenty posters have been sent from Atlanta schools, splendid examples of the fine art work of Atlanta and also of the great interest in the Red Cross on the part of the pupils. These posters held up the national judging until today, as the weekend holiday in the local schools prevented the posters being mailed in time to reach Washington on October 14, the appointed day for judging. However, Atlanta's contributions were received early Tuesday.

The posters were judged by a local committee in the Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross. Local prizes were awarded as follows:

First prize, Kathryn Frazier, Bass Junior High school.

Second prize, Kitty Butler, Washington seminary.

Honorable mention, Carolyn Weinstein, Bass Junior High school.

The prizes were framed and sent to the winners by the American Red Cross. The American Red Cross is a national organization which helps the needy in all parts of the world. It is a non-profit organization and its funds are derived from contributions of the people.

Meanwhile there is much activity in the junior office over packing the Thanksgiving menu covers which Atlanta art classes have made for 2,000 men in the United States fleet. These Thanksgiving greetings are to be sent to ten commanding officers for the crews of cruisers, destroyers and submarines and will add much to the festivity of Thanksgiving.

OKLAHOMA TEAM WINS CLUB BOYS' JUDGING CONTEST

St. Louis, October 15.—(AP)—A team of 4-H Club boys from Oklahoma today was declared winner of the 4-H Club national dairy judging contest at the national dairy show. It was the second consecutive year the Oklahoma entry has won the event.

Last year's team, in subsequent international competition in England, won the Lord Northcliffe international trophy. This year's team will go to England next year to represent the United States in the ninth international contest. The team was coached by J. W. Boehr, dairy extension specialist at the Oklahoma A. & M. college.

Second place in the 4-H Club competition this year was awarded to Nebraska, third to Minnesota, fourth to Arizona and fifth to Illinois. Twenty-seven teams from many states competed.

GILLOOLEY IS INDICTED

Larceny After Trust Is Charged.

An indictment charging William F. Gillooley, former president of the Southern Wheel and Rim Company, with larceny after trust of $6,213.59 from the company was returned Tuesday by the Fulton grand jury.

Gillooley sold his interest in the firm to another member of the company, T. A. Fox, and, while Fox was in possession of the firm, Gillooley sold the firm in selling property in another city. It was said at the solicitor's office. The prosecution charges that Gillooley returned with a check for approximately $11,000 and after paying off some obligations for the company had $6,213.59 left, which it is charged, he refused to turn over to the company.

THE FORD TOWN SEDAN

VALUE far above the PRICE

IN REVIEWING the many advantages of the Ford car, it is particularly interesting to note the relation between value and price.

The low first cost is a point to keep in mind at all times because it means a considerable saving to you in the purchase of a car.

Of even greater importance, however, is the reason for this low price and the manner in which it has been achieved without sacrifice of quality or performance.

Every purchaser shares the benefits of the Ford policy of owning the source of many raw materials—of making thousands of cars a day—of selling at a small margin of profit—of constantly giving greater and greater value through the vast industrial organization that has been built up for the making of this car.

A new degree of excellence has been brought within reach of all the people through the development of new manufacturing machines and the discovery and working out of new manufacturing methods.

Evidence of this is found in the extremely close limits of measurement maintained in the manufacture of vital parts. Some of these are held true to within a maximum variation of three ten-thousandths of an inch (.0003), reducing friction and wear and resulting in greater reliability, longer life and better performance.

As the quality of workmanship has been increased through the accuracy of the machine, so has the quality of materials been increased. The savings resulting from new manufacturing economies have been put back into the car. Through typical Ford methods, materials once thought too expensive for a low price car have been made available for use in the Ford.

Today, more than ever, it is an outstanding example of high quality at low cost. Were it made in any other way, under any other policy, it would unquestionably cost you much more than the present price.

The use of the Triplex shatter-proof glass for the windshield is a definite indication of the quality that has been built into the Ford car. So are the four Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers. The five steel-spoke wheels. The silent, fully enclosed six-brake system. The aluminum pistons. The chrome silicon alloy valves. The simplicity and efficiency of the lubrication, cooling, ignition and fuel systems. The large number of ball and roller bearings. The extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings. The many other mechanical features that count so much in reliability, economy and long life.

All of these are important considerations to every man and woman who is contemplating the purchase of a motor car. All are important reasons why the Ford delivers a value far above the price.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Crime in Holy Land.

It is little realized in the west that murder is a very common occurrence in Palestine. Among themselves the Arabs often have the bloodiest quarrels and for the most insignificant reasons. In the department of justice at Jerusalem I was given the figures for the year 1928. There were more than 300 known murders. The small sum of 150 deaths had been sufficient in one case for one man to murder his neighbor. Another fellow had killed his mother and robbed her of 3 piastres, about 15 cents. Human life is the cheapest thing on earth to the fellahs. Some Arabs in Jerusalem have some pretense of culture. It consists mostly in being able to speak French, but it's nothing more than a slight veneer. The overwhelming mass of Arab peasants and Bedouins are just a mob of primitive, superstitious savages, cunning, easily excited and worked up into a ferocious fanaticism. And, of course, they are hungry and destitute and filthy beyond imagining. By no means the people yet have to sit around conference tables and talk constitutions and democratic government. That sort of thing can only come in a hundred years of progress and enlightenment.

Educational Upsurping.

The federal "bureau of education" in the department of the interior has recently been drastically reorganized by Secretary Wilbur and Commissioner Cooper. Its name has been changed to "office of education" and the announcement made that hereafter its functions will be those of educational research, study of methods, and diffusion of information to the educational authorities of the nation.

There is a strong suspicion that this new aspect is given to this particular federal agency as a shrewd preliminary of a powerful campaign to create a federal "department of education" with a secretary as a member of the president's cabinet.

The propaganda for such an establishment is going on skilfully and sedulously by an army of educators and teachers deluded into believing that a federalized education system will improve their professional and economic conditions.

Those educators and teachers have not read their histories with care and enlightenment. They do not know that after the interstate wars and when the radical centralists in congress who were "reconstructing" the Union, various proposals were made by them to nationalize the public schools, to take their control away from the several states while imposing their costs upon each state, and to amend the constitution so as to prohibit and penalize the making of any distinction in the public schools on account of race, color, or creed. The scheme had the sympathy of President Grant.

But the plans of Charles Sumner and his fellow-fanatics were balked by the representatives of some western states who stated boldly that no such amendment of the constitution would ever be ratified by the legislatures of their states. Their constituents would not stand for federal dictation in education and the mongrelization of their schools.

Now what even the Sumner radicals believed had to be done by constitutional amendment is being urged to be done by congressional enactment. Congress has created all the departments that are represented in the president's cabinet. Doubtless it can enact a secretary of education with a department, but there will be a strong and extended fight over any effort to endow them with control over and administration of the 48 state departments of education.

What Georgia Women Can Do With Their Ballots Well Used.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the city hall in Atlanta, Georgia, the eleventh annual convention of the Georgia League of Women Voters will assemble and function.

Women who are intelligent, interested in their social, economic and civic conditions, and eager for their betterment, should find this highly illuminating and profitable to attend the convention.

It is proper for our women to earnestly consider such matters, determine their potential relations to them, and take effective measures to make their interest in them influential.

The era of silly mobocracy crouching over woman's vote is well over. They own the suffrage now and it cannot be taken from them by any program.

It is a constitution which will remain and will remain to the women as long as the republic lasts.

But little more the republic that it is so. But little more the republic that it is so.

Years have elapsed since the 19th amendment was declared in effect. It is rather too short a time for the 27,000,000 adult women of the country to come to anything like a hearty appreciation of the voting privilege and to put themselves into the alignments where they can make their votes count.

Wife of Gangster Accuses Al Capone of Murdering Prosecutor in Cicero Raid

Woman Says Her Husband Was Member of Gang and Feared Death If Secret Was Told.

Chicago, October 15.—(P)—A woman has offered an unproved solution of the three-year-old Chicago question.

"Who killed William McGinnis?" The woman, Mrs. Frank Biege, declared in a statement made public by Patrick Roche, of the state's attorney's office that "Scarface" Alphonse Capone, lord of Chicago gangs and now occupant of a Philadelphia jail cell, wielded the gun that felled Assistant State's Attorney McGinnis and introduced the machine gun into gang warfare here.

The woman named her husband as one of Capone's staff of executioners, and because she "saw" him, she has gone into hiding, afraid for her life. Biege, alias Kate Perry, was arrested Saturday. Today, to forestall his release by way of habeas corpus proceedings, the prosecutors lodged him in jail on a charge of obstruction while he milled over the 24 pages of his wife's startling statement.

McGinnis, an assistant of former state's attorney Robert E. Crowe, was assassinated with two gangster companions in Cicero three years ago. Biege, his wife said, wrote to Capone.

"You can't feel very safe with that McGinnis murder on your hands. He was demanding $100,000 from Capone," Mrs. Biege declared, and, she added, Biege said to her "Al was the guy who shot McGinnis himself. McGinnis came out there on some rain in Cicero and there was a bunch of fellows with Al—four or five others. While in that raid he shot McGinnis himself."

In August, 1928, Mrs. Biege said her husband was summoned to the office of Tony Lombardo, chief of the Chicago Sicilians here. He was confronted by Lombardo, Albert Anselmi, John Sealise and Joseph Guina—all four have since been killed—and Lombardo was about to order Biege shot when something stirred him.

Lombardo then directed him to "do a job" in Benton Harbor, Mich. Some one was to be "put on the spot." Instead, Mrs. Biege told Roche, she and her husband fled from the city, going to New Orleans and finally to Winnipeg, where they quartered and separated. Recently she learned Biege was seeking her in Detroit and, in fear of her life, she came here and told her story in hopes he would be arrested.

Mrs. Biege accused her husband specifically of the slaying of Ben Newmark, once chief investigator for ex-Prosecutor Crowe. Ralph Sheldon, she said, was offered $50,000 by Newmark to put Capone out of the way and plotted with Biege, then Capone's bodyguard, but the plot was discovered when a Capone henchman found Biege floating over a money bag with which he was preparing for the killing. In retaliation Capone, Mrs. Biege said, ordered Sheldon and Biege to kill Newmark and this was done.

How much stock the investigators took in the woman's sensational tale they would not say, admitting only that the prisoner is under suspicion for several gang crimes. It was at first reported that Mrs. Biege had written letters to Capone demanding $100,000 for her husband and his escape from Chicago, but Philadelphia officials said no such letters had been received and Roche denied their existence, later making public the statement Mrs. Biege had made to him.

NEW YORK MECHANICS MAY JOIN STRIKE

Final Agreement on Old Case Reached in Appellate Body.

New York, October 15.—(United News)—More than 15,000 garage workers will go on strike in the metropolitan area if the walkout of 3,000 gasoline truck drivers is not settled by Saturday, it was announced late today by Herman Cohen, president of the Garage Workers' Union.

The proposed strike would include mechanics, automobile polishers, service men and other garage employees. Cohen's announcement came after the Standard Oil Company had issued a formal statement today saying that the strike of drivers has been broken.

The oil company laid down an ultimatum demanding that the strikers return to work within 48 hours—by Thursday night—or their jobs will be permanently filled. The Standard Oil Company will not recognize the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers, the statement said, but will give the strikers their jobs back as individuals and not as union men.

Another statement of the Standard Oil Company and the Warner-Quinlan Oil Company said that strikers are trying to intimidate filling stations by threatening to submit the controversy to a mediation committee. The oil companies insist that there is nothing to arbitrate.

A peculiar situation has arisen in Brooklyn, where about 60 strikebreakers, employed by the Standard Oil Company, have gone on strike for more pay. They have been getting $15 a day, but they demand $20, where the original strikers were only paid $6. These striking strikebreakers attacked a squad of a dozen policemen under Sergeant John Lennan today, but the disturbance was put down without serious consequences.

Protest against any action being taken by the board of education to permit circuses the use of the athletic field of Henry Grady High school, on Jackson and Tenth streets, was seen in a move made Monday afternoon by members of the Boulevard Park Women's Club, which has been organized to oppose the use of the school grounds for circus purposes.

By unanimous vote the Boulevard park club formally indicated its disapproval of the school board proposal, which, however, had not been accepted by the board, it was pointed out.

The Monday meeting was presided over by Mrs. Clarke Donaldson, first vice president. In commenting on the action of the woman's organization, officers of the club stated that "the club considers the leasing of school grounds for circus purposes a very definite step toward bringing demoralizing and undesirable influence to the schoolboy and an undesirable element into a beautiful residential community. The club does not wish to be misunderstood as being opposed to circuses under right circumstances and on the proper site."

The session was held at the home of Mrs. H. A. Agriola, 756 Elkton drive.

ARKANSAS TO AID SEED TRUST FIGHT

Little Rock, Ark., October 15.—(P)—Although the state will cooperate with the federal government in investigation of alleged price-fixing by dealers in cottonseed in Arkansas it is powerless to obtain convictions for violation of anti-trust laws because of the repeal of the Arkansas anti-trust statutes in 1913, Attorney-General H. L. Norwood advised Congressmen D. D. Glover, of the sixth Arkansas district.

Cooperation of the state with federal authorities in the investigation of reported cottonseed trusts or price-fixing combinations was asked by Congressman Glover last week.

COCA-COLA TAX CLAIM SETTLED IN U. S. COURT

Final Agreement on Old Case Reached in Appellate Body.

Final settlement of the federal government's claim for taxes and interest on profits alleged to have accrued to the Georgia corporation in sale of the Coca-Cola Company 10 years ago, was reached in a consent judgment given Tuesday in the United States district court of appeals here.

The court granted the government a judgment of $1,000,000 in its original claim of $6,500,000 for back taxes and accumulated interest.

In 1919 the Coca-Cola Company purchased the Delaware Corporation from the Georgia Corporation. Subsequently the government filed suit against the Georgia Corporation, claiming in its petition that the Georgia Corporation failed to pay the total amount of taxes due on profits realized in the sales transaction.

Together with back interest, the government's claims aggregated $6,500,000. The claims were contested by the local corporation and after extended litigation a judgment was handed down by the federal district court Tuesday based upon agreement of both sides.

Immediately following granting of the $1,000,000 consent judgment to the government, request was made for transferring the judgment to the Trust Company of Georgia and its associates. This was granted by order of court.

Harold Hirsch represented the old Coca-Cola interests. Glenn's Statement.

In explaining the court action Tuesday, Thomas K. Glenn, head of the Trust Company of Georgia, issued the following statement:

"The verdict and judgment for $1,000,000 was entered against the Coca-Cola Company of Georgia, which owned and operated the Coca-Cola business prior to the purchase thereof by the Coca-Cola Company of Delaware."

"The Trust Company of Georgia and some of its associates paid the amount of the judgment and under order of the court had the judgment transferred to the Trust Company of Georgia so that the question of ultimate liability might be determined later between the different parties at interest."

BLACK AND HEFLIN TALK TO HOOVER ON MUSCLE SHOALS

Washington, October 15.—(P)—The question of what congress shall do with the tremendous power resources of Muscle Shoals was taken to President Hoover today by Senators Heflin and Black, democrats, of Alabama, who asked the chief executive for a conference to discuss the matter.

After their visit at the White House Heflin said the president had taken their request under consideration and that he would arrange for an appointment some time before the regular session of congress, when legislation to dispose of the long controversy is expected to come up for action.

In recent weeks both of the Alabama senators have been active on the floor of the senate with demands that congress come to an agreement on final disposition of Muscle Shoals.

GEORGIA U. D. C. OPENS MOULTRIE CONVENTION

Tuesday Night Session Devoted to Welcome Addresses and Music.

Moultrie, Ga., October 15.—(P)—With nearly every chapter in the state represented, the 35th annual convention of the Georgia division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, opened here tonight in the main auditorium of the First Presbyterian church.

A short musical program was given as a prelude to addresses of welcome delivered by Mayor P. Q. Bryan, of Moultrie, and W. E. Aycock, secretary of the local chapter of commerce.

Mrs. Trox Bankston, state president, was presented by Mrs. John R. Hall, Jr., head of the local chapter.

Mrs. J. J. Harris, of Sandersville, with the indorsement of some of the largest chapters in the state, is a candidate for president. Officers are to be named at the closing session Thursday night.

"The Forward Look" Will Be Subject Of Dr. Moor Today

At this afternoon's 4 o'clock lecture at St. Luke's Episcopal church, Penchre and Alexander streets, the Rev. N. B. High Moor will speak on the subject "The Forward Look." This will be the third lecture in the series "Religion and Life."

The lecture will last for 30 minutes and the public is invited.

PREACHER OPENS LONDON SALOON TO GIVE EXAMPLE

London, October 15.—(United News)—London's first "parish pub," named the Anchor, will be opened next month under the management of the Rev. Basil Jellicoe, cousin of the Earl of Jellicoe and former head of Magdalen college mission at Oxford. The license has been obtained and the building is nearly completed.

"The Anchor will be a roomy, clean, beerhouse with plenty of good food for the patrons," Jellicoe said today. "I hope to show how public houses can and should be run."

"I think we should make a profession of the publican—a great, noble and honorable profession. For that reason, I think a publican college should be started where candidates would be trained first as social workers and second as first class publicans."

TWELVE VARIOUS ARMS REPRESENTED IN U. S. SCHOOL

Twelve branches of the military service were represented in the evening school classes of the officers reserve corps, United States army, which held the second session of the 1929-1930 term Tuesday night at the City Auditorium-Armory.

According to Colonel F. S. L. Price, regular army officer in charge of reserve activities in Atlanta, several hundred reserve officers of all grades enrolled at the opening classes two weeks ago. "Any officer desiring to fit himself for promotion or active duty service may enter the class of his own branch by coming to the meetings held the first and third Tuesday of each month during the fall and winter," Colonel Price stated.

RENOVATION WORK AT STATE CAPITOL MAY BE POSTPONED

The work of renovating the state capitol building may be postponed until after the new year, it was learned at the capitol Tuesday.

Governor L. G. Hardman has had several conferences with architects recently with regard to the work. Although a number of proposals have been submitted to him, he has not entered into a definite agreement.

At his office, it was stated Tuesday, he has not yet determined what improvements would be undertaken. Indications now are that he will not act in the matter until the close of the year, it was said.

RAMSEY TO SPEAK TO FULTON COUNTY P. T. A. COUNCIL

R. L. Ramsey, elementary supervisor of Fulton county schools, will be principal speaker at the October meeting of the Fulton County Parent-Teacher Association Council at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the courthouse. Mrs. C. G. Trowbridge, president, will preside.

SENATE RECESSES OUT OF RESPECT FOR L. J. STEELE

Washington, October 15.—(P)—The senate recessed today until tomorrow out of respect to the memory of Representative Leslie J. Steele, of Georgia.

Just before the recess, a resolution introduced by Senator Harris, of Georgia, expressing regret over the death, was adopted.

MacDonald Quits U. S. Soil Firm in Belief of Success Of Peace for All World Finds Marked Friendliness for British People, He Says in Farewell Message.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., October 15.—(AP)—"Farewell America, hail Canada," were the dual messages today of Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain's prime minister, as he passed from the one country into the other.

There was little formality to the crossing of the international line, represented by a narrow painted white strip in the middle of the Falls View bridge which towers 190 feet above the Niagara river maelstrom below the falls.

Mayor Charles F. Schwab, of Niagara Falls, Ont., and members of the Ontario park commission gave the British statesman a simple welcome before escorting him to Queen Victoria park, where luncheon was served before the MacDonald party boarded a special train on the Canadian National railways for Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec.

Sees Only Friendliness. In a farewell message to the American people Mr. MacDonald said he left them "rich with the proof that while the Atlantic divides, the cause of peace unites us." He added that this was the message from the American people which he was taking home with him.

To the Canadian people he said he was looking forward to "a restful and profitable time" in the dominion, where in conferences with Prime Minister MacKenzie King he will carry forward the peace work begun at Washington in what he has described as the democratic, frank talks with President Hoover.

His message to the American people, whose guest he has been for 12 days, follows: "I have spent twelve days among you. They have indeed gone swiftly and have been very crowded. From the moment of my arrival to this moment, when I must say goodbye, I have met with nothing but hearty demonstrations of friendliness and with a hospitality both public and private which has approached the overwhelming.

Tells of Hoover Talk. "It is impossible to mistake the meaning of your cordiality and I know that in welcoming me you have hailed the object of my visit and have cheered the message of good will which I brought you from my native land, the king, and all sections in Great Britain.

"Your president and I have been privileged to express together in a spirit of democratic and informal frankness the relations of our two countries and the promotion of world peace. I have particularly appreciated the warmth of the reception I had from both your senate and house of representatives.

"To you all I have tried to make plain how earnestly the British commonwealth share your prayers and your wish that peace should reign. As I step across the border and leave you for the moment, I do so rich with the proof that while the Atlantic divides us, the cause of peace unites us. That is the message from me which I am taking home with me."

Leaving his hotel on the American side early this morning, Mr. MacDonald and his party motored along the reaches of the river above the falls and then crossed to Goat island. Rides Below Cataract.

There the premier, his daughter, Isabel, and others left their cars to stand for a time on the edge of the high precipice over which the river tumbles on the American side. Then from across the island on a trestle built out to the edge they viewed the Horse Shoe falls on the Canadian end. A ride on the Maid of the Mist, a small steamer, carried the party up to the waters below the cataract.

Later an inspection was made of the hydro-electric plant on the American side, where 436,000 horsepower of electric power is generated. The party descended in elevators more than 200 feet to the generator room. On the Canadian side the premier minister and his party first viewed the Horse Shoe falls from the bluff and then descended into the scenic tunnel beneath them, the prime minister donning rubber boots, coat and hood for the inspection.

MAYOR OF MIAMI IS BRIDEGRROOM; SURPRISES CITY

Jacksonville, Fla., October 15.—(AP) Mayor Cliff H. Reeder, of Miami, and Mrs. Mary Woodcock, also of Miami, were married at the First Methodist church here tonight.

Only a few close friends of the couple were present at the ceremony. Except those few who were present at the marriage, no one was taken into the confidence of the mayor and his bride, until after the ceremony.

Mayor Reeder was elected chief executive of the Magic City only a short time ago. He has been very active in municipal affairs of the state since his election. It was largely through his efforts that Madison Square Garden of New York erected a stadium in Miami and signed a year contract to host boxing and other athletic events there.

The bride is owner and operator of the Riverside hospital in Miami, and the General hospital at Coral Gables.

FORMER PREACHER AGAIN ARRESTED ON BOOZE CHARGE

Harrison, Ark., October 15.—(AP)—Released last week on federal charges of selling liquor, M. B. McIntyre, former Baptist minister but now operator of a general store at Marshall, Sevier county, was re-arrested here today on the liquor charges and bound over to the next term of federal court.

McIntyre, who abandoned the ministry sometime ago, was arrested last summer along with several others during raids by a special dry squad. Officers seized his general store and said he had poured whisky on the floor in an effort to get rid of it. He was released when the indictment was found to be defective.

CHILDREN TAUGHT RED DOCTRINE IN CAROLINA

Carolina Strike Trial Brings Out Communist Propaganda.

Charlotte, N. C., October 15.—(AP) That children in Gastonia were being taught communist doctrines as a part of the organization of textile mill workers there was brought out today in the trial of seven men charged with second degree murder in connection with the slaying of O. F. Aderholt, Gastonia chief of police.

Mrs. Edith Saunders Miller, 20-year-old wife of Clarence Miller, one of the defendants, testified she had organized the "Young Pioneers" in Gastonia and admitted telling her pupils that what was needed in the United States was a government of workers and farmers "like that in Russia" and also that when the workers and farmers gained control of the government they would have a flag of their own which, she said, "might be the Soviet flag."

The witness also was asked about her religious beliefs and told the jury, consisting of four Methodists, four Baptists, three Presbyterians and one non-church member, that she believed in no Supreme Being; and that she would as readily take an oath on an almanac as she would on the Bible.

Her sensational testimony on cross examination was allowed by Judge M. V. Barnhill only to impeach testimony she had given on direct examination, when she had corroborated Fred Erwin Beal, a defendant, in his statement that he was lying on the floor of the inner office of the union headquarters when the shooting took place on the night of June 7. Aderholt was wounded fatally by strikers fired in a clash with strikers at the union property that night.

It came as a surprise, since Beal yesterday had denied categorically questions as to whether he subscribed to communist doctrines.

When she had finished the defense attorneys protested and Dr. John Randolph Neal, of Knoxville, Tenn., declared the prosecution had "dragged in these ideas" to prejudice the minds of the jury and asked Judge Barnhill to "rise above the ordinary technical rules of testimony" and exclude all reference to communism and religion. This Judge Barnhill refused to do.

The defense then went into conference, Judge Barnhill announcing they wished to confer to see if they would put on any more witnesses.

J. Frank Flowers, heading the defense counsel, said at adjournment this afternoon that no more of the defendants would take the witness stand. This statement was made after George Carter, of Mizpah, N. J., and K. S. Hendricks, of Gastonia, had testified. Should he hold to this plan, Clarence Miller, William McGinnis, Louis McLaughlin and Joseph Harrison will not testify in their own defense.

Mrs. Miller came to the witness stand after Beal had been brought back for a brief re-direct examination. Attorney Jake F. Newell, assisting Solicitor John G. Carpenter, did not waste much time in bringing out the communist question.

After she admitted distributing a periodical called "The Young Pioneer" among the children and instructing them as to its contents the attorney asked her about certain statements in it. He insisted on reading these sections to the jury.

Queen Marie Attacks Premier In Interview Which Causes Political Crisis in Rumania Refuses To Bargain for Seat on Regency—Cabinet May Resign as Result of Row.

Bucharest, October 15.—(United News.)—The Dowager Queen Marie launched a severe government criticism today by attacking the government's policy in choosing a new regent for her grandson, the boy king Michael.

The climax came when Premier Julius Maniu appeared before the regency and demanded that Nicholas, uncle and one of Michael's three regents, repudiate the attack. If Nicholas refused, Maniu said the peasant party cabinet would resign, as would Constantin Saratzanu, the regent newly elected by parliament.

Queen Marie's attack was printed in the newspaper, Universul, and referred to the reports that Maniu had offered her a post on the regency if she would get Prince Nicholas to retire. The queen refused to fill the single vacancy by vote of parliament, where his peasant party dominates.

Beneath Royalty.

Universul's purported interview with the queen yesterday, however, "it is unpermissible even to contemplate any replacement of Nicholas, and it is even less permissible to make such replacement the object of bargaining."

"The royal family does not even know what it means to strive for honors and privileges. We are where we are to do our duty. That's all."

"Personally, I consider it damaging to my country if alongside the royal family other families attempt to raise themselves to a level with the second dynasty. The domination of the royal family produces no happy results."

"There can be no bargaining with Queen Marie, and no concessions, no petty calculations."

Cabinet May Quit.

The interview, coupled with the resignation yesterday of Finance Minister Mihai Popovici and Minister of Justice M. Junian, created a grave situation in which Maniu was forced to take the government of Rumania to resign.

Maniu came into power last November after a series of great demonstrations by peasants against the government of Vintila Bratianu. The regency was created under Bratianu, and Maniu hoped to change its complexion to coincide with peasant party ideas.

When one of the regents, George Buzdugan, died recently the premier seized the occasion to win appointment of Saratzanu.

Since then there have been clashes between Transylvanians and peasant party leaders within the government. Sensational reports spread through Bucharest tonight. One said the government had asked the queen to explain her interview, believing she was misquoted. Opposition party leaders insisted the government must resign if Marie, who at present is at Balcezyk, admitted the interview was correct.

COTTON CONSUMPTION SHOWS GAIN OVER 1928

Washington, October 15.—(AP)—Cotton consumption during September was announced by the census bureau today as 545,649 bales of lint and 82,022 bales of linters, compared with 558,113 of lint and 83,570 of linters during August of this year and 492,307 of lint and 79,917 of linters in September last year.

Cotton on land September 30 was held as follows: In consuming establishments 792,028 bales of lint and 138,546 of linters, compared with 802,200 and 156,870 on August 31 of this year and 720,108 and 111,470 on September 30 last year.

In public storage and at compresses 3,228,820 bales of lint and 83,144 of linters, compared with 1,387,187 and 42,624 on August 31 of this year and 2,037,683 and 40,018 on September 30 last year.

Imports during September totaled 23,974 bales, compared with 24,793 in August this year and 18,508 in September last year.

Exports totaled 725,576 bales of lint and 5,737 of linters, compared with 226,018 and 9,806 in August this year and 4,616 in September last year.

NEGRO IS JAILED FOR WRITING NOTES TO WAGNER'S NIECE

New York, October 15.—(AP)—Louis J. Barnes, 42-year-old Louisiana negro, whose most recent address has been a stable in Harlem, likes to write letters.

Nobody minded until he chose as his favorite correspondent Mayor James J. Walker's confidential secretary, Miss Evelyn H. Wagner, pretty brunette and niece of Senator Robert F. Wagner.

And Miss Wagner said she was more amused than perturbed when she got one letter instructing her to go to the Harlem stable "ask for Jimmy, and roar like a lion."

But when a subsequent letter informed her that "the more I know about you the more I am determined that you will be mine," and he called at her home, she had William arrested.

A magistrate today committed him to the psychopathic ward at Bellevue.

JUDGE C. E. THOMAS MUST FACE TRIAL ON BANK CHARGE

Birmingham, Ala., October 15.—(AP) A charge of conspiracy voted against Judge C. E. Thomas, former state superintendent of banks, by a Jefferson county grand jury which investigated the failure of four banks in the Birmingham district, has not been dropped. Attorney-General C. C. McCall said here today during preliminary legal battles over the trial of J. B. Lassiter, former president of two of the defunct banks.

The announcement was made by the attorney-general after J. M. Long, a member of prosecution counsel, had indicated in circuit court that Lassiter would plead guilty to charges against him provided his indictment against Judge Thomas was not pressed.

The charge against Judge Thomas still is on the circuit court docket, but has not yet been set for trial. Judge Thomas resigned from office following recommendation of the grand jury that he be impeached.

WHITEHALL HOTEL BONDHOLDERS MAY MEET IN GOTHAM

Palm Beach, Fla., October 15.—(AP) An early meeting of members of the bondholders' committee representing holders of first mortgage bonds against Whitehall hotel, fashionable Palm Beach hostelry, was forecast today by counsel for holders of this issue of bonds. The meeting will probably be held in New York city, it was indicated.

First mortgage bondholders have instituted suit in the federal court at Miami, charging fraud against Harold A. Moore, trustee of the first mortgage bond issue, which was for $2,500,000, and seeking to foreclose the first mortgage.

Composing the bondholders' committee are Edward F. Hutton, New York city; A. Drexel Biddle, Jr., Philadelphia; Franklin P. Smith, Chicago; Bert E. Holland, Boston, and others.

$6,000,000 POWER PLANT TO BE BUILT

Wasted Waters of Mississippi and Refinery Residue To Be Utilized.

Baton Rouge, La., October 15.—(AP) The idle waters of the Mississippi river and formerly wasted residue from the refinery of the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana here will be combined in a giant power project said to mark a new departure in American industrial hookups, it was revealed today in a contract made public by the Standard Oil Company and the Louisiana Steam Products, Inc., a subsidiary of Engineers' Public Service, a corporation under the management of Stone & Webster, of Boston.

The latter concern, chartered here late yesterday, announced today that work would start immediately on a $6,000,000 superpower plant north of the city, to be one of the largest of its type in the country.

The plant, of 450,000 kilowatt capacity, will power the Standard refinery here and will also be hooked up with the Gulf Utilities lines to generate power for a long string of cities by D. R. Weller, president of the in south and southwest Louisiana and Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, and M. C. Smith, president of the Louisiana Steam Products, Inc.

THE GUMPS—MYSELF AND THE LUCKY MOMENT

THE HAWK

By ROY VICKERS

INSTALLMENT XLV. A WARNING.

Warren waited for the storm to spend itself.

"It was that beastly flying officer," Cecily said presently. "He was perfectly charming on the way here. And then he—that saluting business—that was simply to tell us that he's going straight to the police to tell them that Douglas is really Doug Harris."

"So you know that!" ejaculated Warren.

"As if it made any difference! You don't believe, Daddy, any more than I do, that Douglas really murdered a man—in a night club of all places."

"Perhaps not," agreed her father. "All the same, poor Douglas has got himself so entangled in that—well—matrimony, I'm afraid, is quite out of the question."

"Don't you see that's what he meant with all that jilting stuff?" she demanded, almost fiercely. "It's certainly doubtful whether we can go on shielding him."

"If he does, I shall wait for him. You'll be able to wrangle me permission to write him a letter and tell him so."

"Wouldn't it be simpler to tell him now—if you're absolutely sure of yourself. I expect to see him within an hour."

"No," she answered firmly. "I could have called him back and told him I knew he was fooling. But I saw all of a sudden that it would be better not to. If he hasn't me to consider he may find a way out."

"It will take a lot of finding," said Warren dryly.

"I'm going to do my bit. I shall make Marie help me."

"She's not here. She left suddenly a few days ago," Warren told her, and added, reluctantly, "I have certain grounds for believing—"

"That she was one of the gang?" she interrupted, if you think it over. That's a nuisance. I intended to frighten her into taking me to the woman in the case, as she's generally called on those occasions."

"What woman?"

"A Mrs. Setton. You don't know where she hangs out, do you?"

"No," lied Warren, unblushingly. "Course! I hoped you'd know. I shall have to find her myself."

On leaving the Warrens' flat, Jabez Mallerton obligingly made a detour on his way back to the office.

"I'll get out here," said Dorling at Hyde Park corner. "It's quite clear, isn't it, Mr. Mallerton? The estate and the interest on those shares to my mother for life. Everything else to Miss Warren."

"I'll have it ready for you within an hour," croaked Mallerton. "I trust that nothing untoward will happen to you in the meantime."

"I shall have to chance it," laughed Dorling.

"Exactly!" returned Mallerton. "That, I am afraid, is your weak spot. You have to take chances. The—er—chief, I think you will find leaves nothing to chance. . . . In an hour, then."

Ten minutes later a taxi brought Dorling to Cora Setton's flat. He had no difficulty in picking out the two men who were watching the building.

"She must know she is being watched," he reflected, with a touch of uneasiness. "Anyhow, I suppose Warren knows his job."

The door of the flat was opened by Cora's elderly, efficient maid, who looked at him askance.

"Mrs. Setton is resting and I've orders not to disturb her."

"Sorry," said Dorling, stepping over the threshold. "You'll have to break the rules this time. Tell Mrs. Setton, please, that I want to see her."

"The woman seemed about to protest further, but instead asked his name."

"Doug Harris, the escaped convict," he rapped out.

"Mr. Douglas Harris," repeated the maid, without the slightest trace of surprise.

Dorling waited in the hall until the maid returned and showed him into the drawing room.

Cora, in an intimate rest robe, was lounging on the sofa. Her eyes were heavy-lidded as if she were just emerging from sleep. She held out one hand toward him and, when he ignored it, withdrew it with perfect grace.

"I wanted to touch you to see if you were real—I'm still more than half asleep," she said lazily.

"Let me know when you're fully awake," he said curtly. "I shall need all your attention."

"You oughtn't to have come here, Douglas," she said evenly. "And you oughtn't to have given your name to that woman. I don't trust her."

"It makes no difference to me," he told her. "I'm probably going back to Dartmoor tonight in any case. Your chief will see to that."

"You're never going back to Dartmoor. The chief has promised me."

Her tone nettled him. In spite of the fact that he treated her with open dislike she invariably spoke as if it were understood between them that they were in love.

"You'll find that he will break his promise before tonight," said Dorling.

"In half an hour from now, Cora, I'm going to tell the police everything I know about the chief and you and the whole gang—where they keep the airplanes, where they fly them, and so on."

As if she had suddenly sprung to full wakefulness Cora sat bolt upright. She was looking at him, trying, he thought, to measure his mood.

"There's no nonsense about it," he assured her. "I'm sick of fooling."

"If you really mean to strike, Douglas, why tell me beforehand?"

"Because, in spite of your doping my whisky and the rest of it, I don't like the role of spy," he answered truthfully. "I've seen enough of the chief's organization to know that, given half an hour's start, he can warn Bessford and the other fellows to run for it."

She looked as if she was still puzzled by his words.

"You mean you'll let me warn the chief first?"

"I shan't interfere with you."

With a quick, catlike movement she snatched up the telephone that stood on a table by the sofa.

"Gerard 1033. . . . I want the chief. . . . Douglas is here and says he is going to the police in half an hour to tell them everything. . . . Yes, everything. . . . Couldn't help it. There's no time. He swears he's going within half an hour. Yes, I shall stay where I am until you send for me."

Dorling listened to the conversation with a vast feeling of satisfaction. The chief, whoever he was, had obviously removed her for her rashness in telephoning the message and she had made the perfectly justifiable answer that there was no time to do anything else.

At first glance all the young ladies look alike; but you are asked to find the Twins that are clothed exactly alike. Now then: upon closer examination you will find a difference in their wearing apparel. Have they all earrings or necklaces? How about their coats and hats? Are they trimmed the same? Some have bands on the brim and crowns, others have not. Maybe the difference is just the buttonhole in the lapel of the coat.

It takes real care and cleverness to point out the difference and find the two real Twins, because two and only two are identically the same.

LET'S X-RAY THE FACTS

THE primary function of a radio is to receive music without loss of quality. Until the advent of the NEW Brunswick, this was an unrealized dream.

But no longer. For the NEW Brunswick will receive music, every type of it, with "Studio Quality" Radio Reception. And that means that now, for the first time, full enjoyment can be realized from Radio programs. They can be heard through the NEW Brunswick exactly as though the listener were in the studio of the Broadcasting Station, hearing the actual artists themselves. The elaborate apparatus that makes broadcasting and reception possible does not seem to exist.

The Most Drastic Test Ever Conceived

Don't buy any radio until you have had a Brunswick Dealer reproduce for you, in his own store, the most convincing test for Radio Tone and Reception ever conceived—which Brunswick made at 12:11 midnight, May 4th last, at Station WABC, New York City. As a result of this test you will, for the first time, be able to compare the work of great artists as they actually sound in the studio, and as they come over the air, through the NEW Brunswick Radio.

Boulevard Park Woman's Club Holds Meeting

Boulevard Park Woman's Club, over which Mrs. Clarke Donaldson, first vice president, presided, met at the home of Mrs. H. A. Agriola on Elkhorn drive last Monday and discussed many interesting phases of civic work. The membership considers the leasing of school grounds for circus purposes a very definite step toward bringing demoralizing and undesirable influences to the school boy, and an undesirable element into beautiful residential community. The body does not desire to be misunderstood as being opposed to circuses being produced under the right circumstances and on the proper site. The membership protested by unanimous vote Monday afternoon against a proposal by a member of the school board to lease the athletic field of the Henry Grady High school to circuses and tent shows.

"Boy Scout activities are character building," said P. H. Plant, director of Boy Scout Troop No. 31, in his talk at the club, explaining that the scout movement is to supplement, not to take the place of home, church, school or other interests and influences of the boy. The club voted to give a feast or "winger roast" to Scout Troop No. 31 during November. Mrs. J. O. Crawford, chairman of Boy Scout co-operation, with her committee, will be in charge of feast and program.

Timely fall reminders for tree and shrub planting were pointed out by Mrs. Raymond H. Wolfe, who called attention to the fact that lawns for winter grass should be planted immediately, and trees and shrubs from late November through early March, and also called attention to city ordinance prohibiting placing trash, leaves and rubbish on the street.

Co-operation with the sanitary department has been asked by residents of Boulevard Park. Prunings and accumulations from the garden will be called for if placed on the premises (not on the street or tree-bed). Sanitary department will call for trash on Thursday. Anything later in the week must be held over until Monday, unless special request is made. The club will co-operate with residents.

Mrs. H. M. Williams, chairman of ways and means, reported more than $800 collected on recent card party. Many other reports of activities were given, among them being Mrs. H. A. Agriola, who with her committee made excellent accomplishment of the regular sewing day at the home for the Friendless. Report from forget-me-not drive, in which Mrs. J. R. Carson represented the club, indicated loyal support. Many books for the children's ward at the sanitarium at Alto have been received by Mrs. George W. Tumlin, chairman; members of the club who have books to give will please send them to Mrs. Tumlin, 556 Elmwood drive, N. E. Mrs. E. D. Thomas, chairman for layette, for the Junior Needlework Guild, requested the club to contribute in before November 1. J. Mason Knox read a poem at the meeting, showing the spirit in which the club seeks achievement and the responsibility felt by each member.

GEORGIA LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS TO MEET HERE

One-Day Session Assembles Thursday Morning, Oct. 17

A one-day convention of Georgia League of Women Voters, over which Mrs. Wellington Stevenson, of Decatur, state president, will preside, will be held Thursday, October 17, in the auditorium of the Atlanta Gas Light Company, corner of Peachtree and Harris streets. The session opens at 10 o'clock, and Mrs. Alfred Bailey, president of Atlanta League, will extend greetings, to which Mrs. Dan C. Lyle, former state president, will respond.

Tentative Program.

The tentative program of the eleventh annual convention features: 10:10 a. m., announcement of convention rules and convocation committees (credentials, resolutions, nominations, nominations, elections), by Mrs. Walter Foote, office secretary; report of treasurer, Mrs. W. A. Ozmer; 10:25 a. m., keynote address by regional director, Mrs. R. L. Turman; 10:50 a. m., presentation of program of study and of work, including budget, by Mrs. Emmett Quinn, secretary; 11 a. m., five minutes intermission; Mrs. Bailey, presiding; report of nominating committee; nominations from the floor; announcement of election arrangements; 11:20 a. m., recommendations of program chairman as follows: Efficiency in government, Mrs. L. L. Hendren; child welfare, Miss Mary Dickinson; women in industry, Mrs. Emmett Quinn; international co-operation to prevent war, Mrs. Sinclair Jacobs; local leagues—Atlanta, DeKalb, Clarksville; state members, Mrs. Harry L. Greene; 12 noon, president's address; report of committee on constitutional amendments, Mrs. Quinn, Mrs. Turman, Mrs. Bailey; 1 p. m., luncheon, hospitality committee, Atlanta League; 2:30 p. m., resolutions, Mrs. L. L. Hendren, presiding; minutes of morning session; opening of polls—Mrs. Foote, Mrs. Gershon, Miss Hunicutt, election committee; 3 p. m., the League in its relation to other organizations, Mrs. George Watts; 3:40 p. m., men's council; five minutes intermission; 3:50 p. m., college leagues, Mrs. Greene, presiding; 3:50 p. m., discussion and adoption of program of study and work, including budget; announcement of elections; a word from the new president.

Constitutional Revision.

The committee on revision of the constitution, Mrs. Emmett Quinn, Mrs. Alfred Bailey and Mrs. R. L. Turman, will present to the convention the following suggested amendments: (1) Five vice presidents instead of three; (2) state to be divided into four regions in place of 12 districts; (3) a council in place of the convention in the old years following the meeting of the state legislature. At this council everything presented will directly concern the more immediate work of the league. A convention biennially; and (4) other minor changes or adjustments.

Resolutions Committee.

Resolutions must be presented in writing to the committee, Mrs. L. L. Hendren, Athens; Mrs. George Watts, Decatur; Mrs. Leonard Haas, Atlanta, not later than 12 o'clock Thursday, the seventeenth. The report will be presented immediately before the luncheon. Action will be taken at the afternoon session. The success of this convention will depend on the enthusiastic co-operation of members.

Among the prominent women expected to attend the state convention are Mrs. L. L. Hendren, chairman of "Efficiency in government and justice" of the league; Mrs. John Morris, state auditor; Mrs. Lamar Rutherford Lipscombe, chairman of the ninth district; Miss Roberta Hoigson, all of Athens, and Mrs. Stewart

STOMACH UPSET, THEN HEADACHE

Theodor's Black-Draught Relieves These Symptoms, Says Carolina Lady.

West Asheville, N. C.—Mrs. Hannah Crook, of 128 Hudson Street, this city, says that she has been acquainted with Theodor's Black-Draught from using it regularly, when needed, during the last ten years.

"I would have spells of indigestion," she explains. "My stomach would hurt and seem to be all upset. I did not relish my food. I would have a bad taste in my mouth; then I would take a headache and have to go to bed."

"I read about Black-Draught. I found it helped me when the headaches came on. I would take a few doses of Black-Draught and get easy. So now, when I feel the first symptoms, I begin with Black-Draught, and I find that by doing so I can keep off the headache, which I now do."

"Black-Draught certainly is a good medicine and will do what it is recommended to do."

The medicine which this lady mentions is recommended by thousands of others because of the benefit it has been to them.

Sold everywhere, in 25c packages.

Egleston Memorial Hospital Active.

Henrietta Egleston Memorial hospital, located on a 12-acre tract at a modern, east of Glen Iris drive, is a modern institution, wherein the latest developments, worked out by science, are applied to the protection of infants and children. It was founded upon a bequest made by the late Thomas Egleston, a prominent Atlanta resident in 1918, and left the bequest in his will that a certain sum be used to establish a hospital in memory of his mother, the late Henrietta Egleston. It is the only general hospital in Georgia used exclusively for children. The formal opening of the hospital took place October 18, 1928, and the board of trustees include W. E. Chapin, W. R. Prescott, Dr. W. W. Menninger, Sam Finley and Beverly DuBoise, Jr. M. Hines Roberts is medical director, and Miss Jessie M. Candish is superintendent.

Active Service.

Although opened a year ago, active service began when the first patient, Grace Hockett, 15 months old, received from the American Rescue Home, was admitted October 21. After expert care and treatment she was sent to the Georgia Children's Home, where she is at present. The first operation at the hospital was performed on James Medlock, a 12-month-old child, who was brought to the hospital from the state. Since the opening 500 little patients have been cared for at the non-denominational institution, open to all children who need its healing services, both in Atlanta and throughout the state. Every age child from infancy to 12 years is cared for in the hospital.

The hospital provides accommodations for 54 children, and there are eight rooms for private patients.

James Robert Alston and William Healey, Sr., and members of St. Catherine's Guild and St. Luke's Episcopal church furnished three of the private rooms. In the Junior League ward three beds have been placed in memory of Mrs. Eugene Black, Jr., Mrs. Turner Harrison and Mrs. Marion Smith. The building is surrounded with a lawn, beautified by the members of the Cherokee Garden Club, who planted evergreen while 42 minnow trees border the driveway, given by Mrs. John Reid, of Mimsa Hall, in memory of her son, Neel Reid, one for each year of his life. It is known as the "Neel Reid drive."

Every Denomination.

Every denomination in Atlanta is represented in the women's auxiliary, and with the Junior League have taken an active and important part in the establishment of the institution, which owes its successful operation largely to the efforts of the above-mentioned organizations. Officers of the women's auxiliary of the hospital are Mesdames Frank Holland, president; Beverly DuBoise, vice president; Albert Thornton, treasurer; R. M. Walker, recording secretary; and Henry Troutman, corresponding secretary. Committees are as follows: Sewing committee, general chairman, Mrs. Paul Holfish; subcommittees, Mary E. L. Lippitt, Miss Alice Green; needlework guild, Mrs. Mitchell; All Saints' church, Mrs. Hinton Hopkins and Mrs. Houston Johnson; Junior League, Miss Margaret Nelson; St. Philip's church, Mrs. A. B. Niall and Mrs. Eugene Crichton; St. Mark's church, Mrs. Henry Troutman; Catholic mothers, Mrs. Dowdell Brown and Mrs. J. P. Allen; St. Catherine's guild, Mrs. Rogers Toy and Mrs. Paul Reese; Liberal church, Mrs. Karl Karstson; Council of Jewish Women, Mrs. M. L. Hirsch. These committees, besides making many garments and supplies, have special days for sewing at the hospital.

The Christmas card fund includes Mesdames Robert Alston and Jesse Draper, membership, Mesdames Eugene Harrington and Houston Johnson; scrapbook, Miss Sallie Brown; endowment, Mrs. W. R. Preston; memorial fund, Mrs. J. J. Goodrum; telephone, Mrs. S. Pappenheimer; publicity, Miss Yolande Gwin; wives of Fulton County Medical Association, Mesdames C. W. Roberts; entertainment, T. C. Erwin; ways and means, Jesse Draper; social service, H. F. Dunwoody; and Miss Adelaide Nelson; Red Cross milk fund, J. E. Summerville.

Miss Parks Weds Mr. Kellam At Beautiful Home Ceremony

A marriage of exquisite beauty and dignity was that of Miss Mary Ellen Parks to John Fleming Kellam, Jr., which was solemnized last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caldwell Lewis, on Springdale road, at 8:30 o'clock, by Rev. Harold Shields in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

The rooms of the entire lower floor were beautifully decorated with smilax, ferns and white roses, dahlias and lilies. The improvised altar was placed at the far end of the living room. A white satin altar stood between banks of palms behind which was placed silver metal cloth festooned with ferns and smilax. A large mound composed of white roses and lilies was placed on the altar and surrounded with an arch of white candles. A single large cathedral candle stood at each end of the altar and the white satin canopy was effectively draped with satin ribbons, fern and garlands of white flowers.

As the guests assembled a program of pre-nuptial music was rendered, Mrs. Edward White, aunt of the groom, played the accompaniment while Mrs. William Owens, cousin of the groom, sang "My World" followed by "Oh, Day of Golden Promise."

Mrs. Paul Green played the accompaniment on the violin. During the ceremony Mrs. White and Mrs. Green played softly "Oh, Sweet Mystery of Life."

Wedding Attendants.

First to descend the stairs were the six ribbon bearers, Miss Carolyn Arnold, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Howison Mahone, sister of the groom, came first. Miss Arnold wore blue moire-taffeta combined with blue tulle. Mrs. Mahone was gown in peach satin and tulle. Next came Miss Anne Oakes and Mrs. E. J. Harris. Miss Oakes wore deep pink tulle with a skirt of peach tulle. Mrs. Harris was gown in pink tulle with a skirt of pink tulle ruffles. Mrs. T. E. Clapp and Mrs. S. T. Killen were next together. Mrs. Clapp wore pale green tulle and tulle and Mrs. Killen wore gown in yellow with a skirt fashioned of yellow tulle showing into oranges. Each carried a large sheaf of pastel flowers showered with ribbons. F. B. Bruce, of Greenville, S. C., and Howison Mahone acted as groomsmen. Miss Jane Lewis, younger sister of the bride, acted as junior bridesmaid. She wore a gown of green tulle with rainbow satin ribbon and showered with swanmons and pastel shaded rosebuds. The matron of honor, Mrs. Joseph Caldwell Lewis, mother of the bride, wore a figural pink, pamine velvet with satin slipper to match. Miss Frances Parks, another sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor, and was gown in orchid satin, fashioned along princess lines with ankle-length skirt. Both the maid of honor and matron of honor carried bouquets of dresden shaded flowers. The two little flower girls were Miss Rebecca Warner Killam and Miss Coley Killam, nieces of the groom. They wore frocks of orchid chiffon over pink and green chiffon and carried small baskets of pink rosebuds. Master Edwards McCrory, Jr., was the ringbearer and entered carrying the ring on a white satin pillow showered with valley lilies and swanmons.

Lovely Bride.

The lovely bride descended the steps alone, meeting her father, Joseph Caldwell Lewis, at the foot of the stairs, who gave her in marriage. Her lustrous wedding gown of heavy ivory satin was draped along princess lines with long tight sleeves and a fitted bodice. The skirt was made of the circular flounces which lengthened to a graceful train. Her veil was caught to her hair with a cluster of orange blossoms and was of exquisite princess lace. Orange blossoms were caught to the front of her dress from the neckline to the first ruffle on the skirt. The bride carried a white satin prayer book showered with narrow satin ribbon and valley lilies.

Reception Follows.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held, at which Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were assisted in entertaining by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fleming Kellam, Sr., Mrs. George H. Lewis, Miss Annie Lewis and Mrs. Harold Brotherton. Miss Carolyn Arnold and Mrs. Harrison Mahone kept the bride's book.

The bride's traveling suit was of deep brown chiffon velvet with a satin blouse of eggshell shade. Her hat and shoes were in a matching shade of brown. Mr. Kellam and his bride left immediately for a motor trip through North Carolina, stopping at Grove Park Inn at Asheville and other points of interest in the state.

Mrs. Otis Lester Honors Miss Goode And Mr. Thompson

Honoring Miss Mittie Lee Goode and Harold Simpson Thompson, whose marriage will be solemnized this afternoon, Mrs. Otis Lester entertained at a buffet supper at her home on Callan circle last evening. Miss Bessie Minish Weds Mr. Lewis.

Commerce, Ga., October 15.—The marriage of Miss Bessie Minish to Herbert Lewis was solemnized at 10 o'clock last Thursday morning at the summer home of Governor Hardman in the presence of the immediate families and close friends. An improvised altar, before which the service was performed, was formed of mountain shrubbery, interspersed with vases filled with yellow dahlias. The Rev. H. H. Humphries, of Cleveland, pastor of Crescent Hill Baptist church, performed the ceremony. A program of vocal music was rendered by Miss Mary Ray and Miss Mary Lee Nunn at the piano.

Miss Ruby Minish, sister of the bride, maid of honor, wore a model of pink tulle with hat and shoes to match, and carried a bouquet of pink dahlias. Little Miss Imogene Ray acted as flower girl, and wore orchid organidia, and carried a basket of old-fashioned flowers. The bride and groom entered together, the bride wearing a princess model of blue crepe and embroidered georgette. She wore an imported French velour hat in a harmonizing blue, and shoes to match, and her bouquet was of bride's roses. Henry Black, of Clermont, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis left for a tour of North Carolina. Mrs. Lewis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. FILM STUNT MAN FALLS 20 STORIES ON CHICAGO CROWD

Chicago, October 15.—(P)—Losing his grip on a rope down which he was sliding from the top of the new 44-story Civic Opera building, Rudy Cimino, 23-year-old New York stunt man, fell 20 stories to his death today, injuring several spectators, one fatally.

Albert Beckman, 17, a bystander, was struck by Cimino's hurtling body and suffered a broken neck from which he died. John Caraher, 18, was knocked down and injured, but his condition was not considered serious. Hundreds of people stopped the fall, which terminated a publicity stunt arranged by a news reel company. Cimino, before going to the top of the building, made a brief talk, saying he intended to slide down head first. He was seen to have difficulty in keeping his feet above his head, however, and soon before reaching the 20th floor he began somersaulting in his effort to gain position.

A PRETTY AFTERNOON FROCK.

6601. This attractive creation has new-style features. The raised waistline and the back dip are pleasingly expressed. The waist portions blouse above a deep hip yoke, below this the skirt flares and forms soft jabot folds over the center. The front of the blouse is finished with a yoke that is cut in V shaping at the neck, and forms a smart revers at one side. A jabot also trims the front of the blouse. The pattern is cut in four sizes: Small, 34-36; medium, 36-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. To make the dress for a 38-inch size will require 4 1/2 yards of 36-inch material. To underface the skirt, the jabot and for revers facing of contrasting material as illustrated 1 1/4 yard 36 inches wide is required. The width of the skirt at the lower edge with flare fulness extended is 2 3/4 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A SMART SUIT FOR A LITTLE BOY.

6623. As here pictured this model was developed in brown velveteen. Flannel, jersey towed and firm wash fabrics are also recommended. Pongee is serviceable; as is also linen. The left front of the blouse laps over the right front in simple outline and is finished with a serviceable pocket. The sleeve is a comfortable blouse sleeve. The trousers are a regulation model, with side closing and ample pockets.

The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 2, 4, and 6 years. To make a 4-year size.

Tennessean Leaps From Hotel Room To Instant Death

Memphis, Tenn., October 15.—(P)—After writing notes declaring that he was broken, both in health and finances, and giving directions for the disposal of his body, W. D. Hogan, 45, a shoe salesman of St. Louis and formerly a prosperous business man of Knoxville, Tenn., plunged to his death from the seventh floor of a downtown hotel here today.

Letters found in Hogan's room at the hotel indicated that he had become distracted because of financial reverses. In one note, addressed to his wife, he asked forgiveness for his deed and said: "I have been on a wild trip for two weeks, just as crazy as a confirmed idiot."

Another note said that $190 would be found in his pocket to pay the expense of the forwarding of his body to Knoxville. The money was found as directed.

METHODISTS MEET

Tennessee Conference Hears Dr. W. W. Pinson.

Nashville, Tenn., October 15.—(P)—Dr. W. W. Pinson, of Nashville, opened the 115th annual session of the Tennessee Conference Methodist Episcopal Church, South, tonight with an address that marked also the semi-centennial of Dr. Pinson's membership in that conference.

"Like the saturation of the atmosphere before a downpour," he said, "Christ is saturating the world's thought for a new Pentecost and new adventures for His kingdom."

Dr. Pinson said there were critics who "in one breath tell us the church has lost its power, and in the next that it is exercising too much power; that the people have lost faith in the leadership of preachers, and yet that their leadership is dangerous and ought to be curbed."

ASKS $2,000,000 DIVORCE PAYMENT

Cincinnati, Ohio, October 15.—(P)—Permanent alimony of $2,000,000 was asked today by Mrs. Roberta Mosby in an answer and cross petition filed in domestic relations court here to the divorce suit filed yesterday by Gilbert H. Mosby, president of the Mosby Medicine Company. Mosby charged his wife with neglect and cruelty. They have no children and were married in 1921.

METHODISTS MEET AT JOHNSON CITY

Johnson City, Tenn., October 15.—(P)—A fellowship dinner and an informal reception for Bishop Charles E. Locke, presiding bishop, preceded a program of welcome here tonight preliminary to the formal opening tomorrow of the 88th annual session of the Holston conference to the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Addresses of welcome were made by Mayor W. B. Ellison, of Johnson City, and former Governor Alf A. Taylor. Bishop Locke responded for the conference.

will require 3 1/8 yards of 35-inch material. Trouser pockets and inner waist bands may be made of lining or coarse muslin, and will require 2-8 yard 32 inches wide, cut crosswise. To finish neck, and shaped front edge with bias binding will require 1 1/4 yard 1 1/2 inch wide. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A COMFORTABLE PROTECTIVE GARMENT.

6598. Cotton prints, pongee, chambray, gingham, rayon and linen are suggested for this practical smock. The fronts are faced to form revers or lapels, that meet a rolled collar in notches. Narrow belt sections hold the fulness over the back. The sleeve is a popular model with fulness pouched above a band cuff. Soft fulness is created in front at the shoulders, below short yoke extensions of the back.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: Small, 34-36; medium, 36-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. To make the smock of one material, for a medium size will require 4 yards 36 inches wide. For collar, facings, pockets, and cuffs of contrasting material as pictured in the large view, 5-8 yard 36 inches wide is required cut crosswise.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

TEXAS TRAIN CRASH KILLS THREE BOYS, ANOTHER DYING

Weatherford, Texas, October 15.—(P)—Three boys of high school age were killed and two others were seriously injured in a collision between an automobile and a freight train here last night. Joe Boudie and Robert Chambers were killed by the impact and Clinton Jackson died a few hours later in a hospital. Physicians had little hope that his brother Carl would live and D. C. Wilmon, the fifth member of the party, was thought to have suffered a fractured skull.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

FLIP CONSULTS BOWSER. BY THORNTON W. BURGESS. A little knowledge oft will make The basis for a great mistake. —Bowser the Hound.

Flip the Terrier had learned that when he was puzzled by things he saw the best thing to do was to go ask Bowser the Hound. He had learned to have a great deal of respect for Bowser's knowledge. Now that he was so badly puzzled by the queer appearance of Striped Chipmunk, Flip decided that he would go consult Bowser the Hound. He found Bowser taking a sun bath over near his little house. "Bowser! Wake up, Bowser!" cried Flip.

Bowser lazily opened one eye; then just as lazily opened the other eye. He yawned. "Then he stretched. "Well," said he, "what is it now?" "Have you seen Striped Chipmunk lately?" asked Flip.

"I saw him yesterday. What about him?" replied Bowser.

"Was there anything the matter with him yesterday when you saw him?" inquired Flip.

"Nothing at all," replied Bowser. "I have never seen him look better."

"Well," replied Flip in a most decided manner, "there is something the matter with him today, or else there is another Chipmunk living there, but I doubt it. It isn't the right time of year. I don't believe Striped Chipmunk would invite anybody to come there and live with him all winter. What was the matter with this Chipmunk that you saw?"

"That's what I want to find out," replied Flip. "Never have I seen such a sight. Come over and watch that hole for a while, Bowser, and see for yourself."

Now, Bowser was exceedingly comfortable right where he was. "I'm too lazy," he confessed. "You tell me what you saw."

"No, I won't do that," replied Flip. "I want somebody else to see what I saw and then I'll be sure that I saw what I saw."

"You mean," said Bowser, "that you are not sure that you saw what you saw?"

"That's just it," replied Flip. "I want somebody else to see what I saw."

Presently Striped Chipmunk popped out of it and disappeared in the grass, saw that I may be sure that I saw what I saw."

Now, Bowser is very good-natured, so just to please Flip he went with him to where they could sit down and watch Striped Chipmunk's hole. Presently Striped Chipmunk popped out of it and disappeared in the grass.

"Was that Striped Chipmunk?" asked Flip.

"Certainly. Who else would it be?" replied Bowser.

"Wait till he comes back," replied Flip. "Wait till he comes back."

So Bowser waited, and after a while back came a Chipmunk. But this time his head was swollen and all out of shape just as it had been when Flip had seen it before. As soon as this little fellow had disappeared in Striped Chipmunk's hole Flip turned to Bowser. "There," said he, "who was that?"

"Why, Striped Chipmunk, of course," replied Bowser.

"It couldn't have been," declared Flip, beginning to get excited. "It couldn't have been! Did you see how out of shape that fellow's head was?"

Striped Chipmunk's head wasn't like that when he left." Then Bowser began to chuckle. Something amused him. He was so full of mirth that he actually lay down and rolled over. Now, no one likes to be laughed at and Flip is just like the rest of us. He began to lose his temper. "What's the joke?" he demanded. "What are you laughing at?"

"Excuse me!" said Bowser at last. "I'll explain to you in a minute. It was Striped Chipmunk all the time. You simply saw him with his pockets full."

Bridge-Breakfast Given on November 11 Honors Miss McCarley and Miss Howell

Miss Adair McCarley and Miss Catharine Howell, two of the loveliest members of the Debutante Club of 1929-30, will be honor guests at the bridge-breakfast given Monday, November 11, by their aunt, Mrs. McWhorter Milner. Miss McCarley and Miss Howell are representatives of old and aristocratic Atlanta families who for generations have been foremost in social, civic and religious circles. These charming debs are first cousins, their grandparents having been the late Mr. and Mrs. George Arthur Howell, beloved Atlanta pioneers. They have enjoyed the advantages of European travel as well as that derived from traveling in America. Miss McCarley and Miss Howell will be formally presented to society at separate receptions given during the autumn, and will also be guests of honor at a series of parties during their debutante year.

All Florida Plans To Invade Atlanta for Tech Game Saturday

ALABAMA IS CRIPPLED; VOLS AT PEAK

FLORIDA FANS TO SWARM CITY FOR TECH GAME

Governor and Official Party Will Be in 'Gator Section at Flats.

Jacksonville, Fla., October 15.—(Special.)—All Florida is planning the biggest invasion of Georgia on record.

According to present indications, Mr. Sherman's invasion will appear as but a zephyr after the 'Gator hordes get through with Atlanta Saturday. That's the sentiment down here right now.

Despite the fact that most Jacksonville people had to be content with tickets in the general region of the goal line, they're going right ahead with their preparations to mount special trains, airplanes, motor buses, private cars, or any other mode of transportation human ingenuity can devise and set sail for Atlanta in time to be there when the referee sounds his whistle for the Tech and Florida eleven Saturday afternoon.

THOUSANDS COMING.

Enthusiastic estimates are that some 3,000 Floridians will enhance the population of Dixie's metropolis Saturday. Very likely this report is only off by a few thousand, but at any rate there are going to be a lot of 'Gator rooters in those stands Saturday, including the 75-piece Florida band, if enough money is raised between now and then to provide railroad transportation.

The Atlantic Coast Line is operating a special train, Howard G. Rambo, district passenger agent, stated today from Leesburg. The train moves on through Ocala, stops in Gainesville to pick up the band and members of the student body, and then on to Jacksonville, where the main portion of the party hooks on. Leaving here at 8:40 Friday night, the Coast Line special hits Atlanta at 7 o'clock Saturday morning.

The Southern is operating a train on a similar schedule from here, hearing Mayor John T. Alston, Jr., and his "committee of 50." On the west coast a special is to run from Tampa, while single cars will run from Tampa and St. Petersburg and two from Burnett's Lake.

The real invasion of Atlanta will begin Friday morning, though, when the team and a few hangers-on steam into the Terminal station. They arrive at 8:30 on the Dixie Flyer and will make headquarters at the Atlanta Biltmore.

PRIVATE CARS.

Among those who have contracted for private cars on the special are A. S. Herlong, of Leesburg, and Truxton Drake, of Ocala. Other exclusive accommodations have been requested from Palatka and Orlando.

On the Coast Line train Friday night will be the "F" Club, which has been given the concession privilege. The members of this organization, naturally enough, are those privileged to wear Florida's monogram award for proficiency in athletics. They have a combination baggage and day coach for their use. A baggage car for band equipment is included in the road's equipment, five sleepers and an observation car completing the train.

While fans down this way have not been falsely encouraged by Tech's loss to North Carolina, they believe the 'Gators have the best chance in history to upset the Tornado. And no one, seemingly, is going to take a chance on missing that unusual spectacle.

Chicago Talks About Next Year As Team Loses

Chicago, October 15.—(AP)—Sympathy mingled with hope for better returns next season was the mental reaction of Cub fans as their favorite team slipped out of the now historic world series picture of 1929.

To three-fourths of the fans, who congregated everywhere a radio report was available, it was no surprise when the Cubs lost their lead and the game in the ninth inning. Most of them, however, knowing full well the comeback habits of Connie Mack's elephants, and the blow-up temperaments of Pat Malone and his mates.

"But wait until next year," most of them countered. "Owner William Wrigley wanted a National league pennant and got one. He wants a world's championship and he'll get it. He's funny that way."

There is no secret hereabouts that Wrigley is planning to do some more spending to get a star pitcher or two and a third baseman who can hit as well as field. Several well-established stars of the game have attracted his attention as well as that of Manager Joe McCarthy and what they want they usually get.

The greatest disappointment of all to the Chicago fans was that the world series circus would not return to Wrigley field. Thousands of dollars must be returned, as tickets were sold for the sixth game—a sell-out in fact.

Dempsey Granted Fight Permission

Chicago, October 15.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey was granted permission by the state athletic commission today to stage his second boxing venture at the Coliseum, October 20. The former world's heavyweight champion plans a card of heavyweight bouts.

Two years ago, more or less, Connie Mack bought a wide-eyed outfielder called "Mule" Haas from R. J. Spiller for $12,500, baseball.

Now $12,500, baseball, means that sum in what is called "baseball money." The currency of the national pastime is printed on thin sheets of rubber and stretches to approximately twice its normal size with very little tension.

In fact, baseball money has been known to possess an elasticity 3.1416 times its length without snapping. On such occasions as fishing trips, where even bream have been known to be elongated 2.3 times without affecting the frying qualities, baseball money often is stretched until a $10 bill resembles a larval.

So when one mentions $12,500, baseball, that means that in all probability the figure was quoted at the elastic limit of the bills on the day of sale.

I mean to say that more than likely George (Mule) Haas, former Cracker centerfielder, who smacked a home run in the ninth inning to tie the score on the Cubs and make Bing Miller's single good for the works.

So the financial statement of the firm of Mack, Shibe & Co., on the world's series reads:

Receipts	$96,364.51

Gravy $89,364.51

And perusal of that financial statement should make one feel ashamed for having wasted so many gallons of tears for poor old Connie Mack and his associates for not having won a pennant in 16 years. A bonus of eighty-nine thousands every sixteen years on top of normal earnings is not a mere tip.

"A FAN" TAKES PENCIL IN HAND.

The fall fiesta of football, fighting and figuring, is in full swing. All who can write and many who cannot celebrate the occasion by redoubling the number of anonymous letters to sports desks where men sit without protection.

In one mail a letter complaining that Georgia was not given credit, another insisting the newspapers should have run the officials in the Tech-North Carolina game out of town, another belaboring the newspapers for not demanding Coach Alexander's resignation, another detailing what Alabama was going to do to Tennessee, Vanderbilt and Tech and so on.

Tulane and Loyola fans, always most prolific letter writers, already have started their delightfully confident bombardment.

Just as they wrote last year, "Tulane has an impenetrable line and most fastest backfield in the south and what we are going to do to Georgia Tech will make your head swim" and "Loyola can whip any team in the Conference but they are afraid to let them join."

The deluge of letters is just the side-swish of the big wind that sweeps the nation at this time of year. Some there are who complain of the amount of space devoted to football on the sports pages. Yet when the public is thinking, talking, writing nothing else, what can we do about it but fall in line?

"I TOLD YOU SO"—ALMOST.

One query signed "Alumnus of the Barber College," writes: "You were so kind as to warn us North Carolina was strong and we saved our money, but why didn't you tell us about Georgia? Didn't you go over to Athens? Or maybe you are a Yale man."

The last accusation I refer to my lawyer. To the main query I am forced to reprint a timid note of warning published Wednesday before the Yale game:

"Unless the Georgia debutantes suffer an attack of buck-ague (a country name for stage fright) at the outset of the Yale game, they will give the royal Blue a great fight and might actually win the decision."

"Yale has not been hit hard this season. Yale opened last week against Vermont which was less valuable to team development than a scrimmage against the 'C' team or maybe the 'H' team. Yale, say what you will, will NOT be ready to stop a well organized, varied attack."

"Georgia has had two games, in one of which they had priceless experience looking at spin plays and quaffed the sobering draught of defeat. In the other they had the tonic of staging a comeback and hitting a winning pace."

"If the Bulldogs get together on offense and get mean on defense, they can set Yale down very hard, maybe for the long count. And who ever heard of a Georgian getting nervous on his own red clay soil—it has not happened in 100 years."

ALABAMA IN FORM.

The Crimson Tied-Up is in bandages again this week. The usual Monday to Friday hospital list rules the news.

Holm is on crutches, Molton Smith is just sick, Ralph McRight's appendix is not working again after functioning all through the last Saturday game. Billy Hicks is mighty poorly. Dave Boykin has housemaid's knee. "Spinner" Campbell will not be able to start against Tennessee.

However, Dr. Wallace Wade will have them all fixed up by Saturday and they will give the perfectly healthy boys at the University of Tennessee a right good game.

The season, at Alabama at least, is running true to form.

Battered Middies Resume Practice

Annapolis, Md., October 15.—Badly battered but without serious injury after the gruelling Notre Dame game, Navy gridders resumed active work today. Bryan and Hageberg, tackles; Cramer, end, and Joe Bauer and Clifton, backs, have had bruises but will be in shape Saturday. Navy mentors realize Duke, next Saturday's foe, is not a soft spot despite its route by P.T. ten days ago.

'Scrambled Egg' Play Shelved by Little

Washington, October 15.—(United News.)—Coach Lou Little has shelved his tricky "scrambled egg" play for the time being, it became known today, when he decided to concentrate on polishing up a straight football offense. Although temporarily abandoned, he intimated it again would be brought forth when the backs had gained enough experience to warrant use of the complicated formation.

YANKEES NAME NEW MANAGER FOR NEXT YEAR

Art Fletcher Reliably Reported "Hug's" Successor; Officials Mum.

By George Kirksey.

New York, October 15.—(United News.)—The manager of the New York Yankees has been selected and will be named a week from today, Secretary Ed Barrow has announced.

"We have selected the Yankees' manager," Barrow said, "but want to give him a chance to return to the city before making the announcement public."

From a reliable but unofficial source the United News learned that the man is Arthur Fletcher, Yankees' coach for the past three years.

NOW AT HOME.

Fletcher is now at his home in Collinsville, Ill., and is expected to return here next week.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert denied rumors today that John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, has been named to succeed the late Miller Huggins.

"If McGraw is out of a job I will gladly turn the management of the Yankees over to him," said Colonel Ruppert. "McGraw, however, is manager of the Giants. We have made no offers to him. Another man already has been selected to manage our team."

TWO ELIMINATED.

Two prominent candidates for the Yankees job have been definitely eliminated. They are Dan Howley, former manager of the St. Louis Browns, who was named manager of the Cincinnati Reds today, and Babe Ruth, who announced Sunday in Philadelphia that he was not yet ready to take on the worries and troubles of a manager.

Another man who has been prominently mentioned for the Yankees job is Bob Conner, president of the St. Paul American association club. He, too, is out of town, but there is nothing else to intimate that he is the man.

Jack Hendricks, who recently resigned as manager of the Cincinnati Reds, conferred with Colonel Ruppert today but was informed politely and firmly that the Yankees were not looking for a manager.

REFUSED OFFERS.

Since Fletcher came to the Yankees he has turned down two offers to manage other American league clubs. Fletcher did not turn down these offers for nothing.

Last July Fletcher was offered the job as manager of the Chicago White Sox. Two years ago he was offered a similar post with the Cleveland Indians. Fletcher is a product of the early McGraw school. After three years of minor league baseball he broke in with the Giants in 1900 and was one of the best shortstops in the game for years. The Giants traded him to the Phillies in 1920 and he was made manager of the latter club in 1922.

He managed the Phillies for five years, but never succeeded in getting the club above seventh place because of lack of material. When Stuffy McInnis was made manager of the Phillies in 1927, Fletcher came to the Yankees as coach.

He is 43 and has been in baseball for 22 years.

HOWLEY SIGNS TO PILOT REDS

Harry Heilmann, Tiger Slugger, Bought in Move To Bolster Club.

Cincinnati, Ohio, October 15.—(AP)—The first step to rebuild the Cincinnati Reds for the 1930 pennant race was taken today by Sidney Wertheim, club president, who announced Dan Howley, former St. Louis Browns manager, would pilot the team next year and that Harry Heilmann, hard-hitting Detroit outfielder, had been purchased outright from the Tigers.

Howley succeeds Jack Hendricks, leader of the Reds since 1924. He has had three years' managerial experience in the major leagues, all with the Browns. His team finished fourth in the American league this year, while the Reds landed in seventh position.

Well secured the controlling stock of the Reds less than a month ago and immediately announced he would be the club more of a factor in next year's flag chase. He said he would trade all but three of the present roster, if necessary, to improve the team. The three were Captain Hugh Critz, second baseman; Red Lucas, pitcher, and Evar Swanson, fleet rookie outfielder. Heilmann, former leading batter of the American league, was made, Well said, at Howley's suggestion.

Well said Connie Mack, leader of the new world's champions, wanted to add Heilmann to his array of sluggers but finally waived on him. Well completed the deal today over long-distance telephone. The purchase price was not announced.

Army Workouts.

West Point, N. Y., October 15.—Army had a speedy drill on formations today and engaged in a half hour's scrimmaging against Harvard plays. The Army team will leave Cambridge on Thursday.

This young man, a very essential part of Wallace Wade's 1929 Crimson Tide, has been playing a splendid game this year at quarterback and when Tennessee is met Saturday at Knoxville, Captain Billy Hicks is going to offer the touchdown firm of McEver and Hackman something approaching competition.

Auburn Team United; Has "Best" Practice

With Internal Difficulties Removed, Squad Works Better Than at Any Time This Year.

By Ralph McGill.

Refusing to break beneath the bludgeonings of chance, the Auburn Tigers are having their best week of football practice this week.

This was learned last night from an unimpeachable source at Auburn where the team is preparing for the game with Vanderbilt University on Saturday at Birmingham, Alabama.

Two day football players, as reported in The Constitution of Tuesday morning, had a salutary effect on the football squad, removing a source of dissension that had caused trouble all fall, according to the report from Auburn.

The trouble was reported to have arisen between the head coach, George Bohler, and four of his players. Only two of them were of any value. With all four off the squad by their own voluntary action, the Tigers are booming along in good shape. The loss of material is more than compensated for in the new-found cohesion of spirit, it is said by those who have watched the developments. Coaches would make no statement.

The dissension was reported to have been a purely personal matter and was said to be all smoothed out and not likely to flare up again this fall. The squad is working as a unit and apparently greatly encouraged at the turn of affairs. Which responds to the everlasting credit of the football squad. It was possessed of enough common sense to rise above the personal.

Trotting Record Is Again Lowered

Lexington, Ky., October 15.—(AP)—Hanover's Bertha, owned by the Hanover Farm, Hanover, Pa., and driven by Thomas Berry, lowered the world's record for a mile from 2:02 3/4 to 2:02 against time at a trotting horse breeder's meeting here today. It was the fourth time the record has been beaten since September 30.

Spivey Wins

Greenville, Miss., October 15.—(AP) Ben Spivey, 148 pounds, Birmingham, Ala., defeated Eddie Goldberg, 144, of St. Louis, here tonight in a fast ten-round bout.

SMITH, M'RIGHT JOIN "CRIPPLES" ON WADE SQUAD

Tennessee Squad Has Full Strength for Crimsons.

University, Ala., October 15. Wallace Wade's football squad, with the greatest test of the season ahead at Knoxville next Saturday, was thinned this afternoon when Molton Smith, tackle, and Ralph McRight, first string right half, dropped out of practice because of illness.

They are reviving the old name for Alabama. It used to be "The Thin Red Line" before it was named "The Crimson Tide," and with the ranks thinning the old name is the more applicable. The thinning ranks have the coaches in the depths of gloom.

HOLM ON CRUTCHES.

Tony Holm, the regular fullback, appeared on the field on crutches. He was hurt in the Chattanooga game last Saturday. Billy Hicks, captain and quarter, did not start in the lineup last week. He has been ill with a recurrent fever, the same thing which struck Smith today, all season.

Randolph Campbell, who fractured a bone in his leg the first day of practice this fall, is on the field but will not be able to play at Knoxville this week.

Coaches are greatly concerned about McRight. He has been out before this fall with an attack of appendicitis. He was given the rest cure and the appendix treated with ice applications. He was able to return to the game but another attack struck him today and he was sent to the infirmary for observation.

CHANCES VERY DARK.

The Crimsons had hoped to be at the peak for the Tennessee game. They were ambitious to obtain revenge for last year's defeat when fatalities gave Tennessee two touchdowns and a slim victory. With injuries occurring almost daily the Tide's chances look very dark. They will scrimmage again Wednesday.

Vols Now Have Full Strength.

Knoxville, Tenn., October 15.—The injury jinx which has hovered over the University of Tennessee camp all this season has at last disappeared and Coach Bob Neyland will be able to fling his full strength against the Crimson Tide in one of the feature battles of the south Saturday.

Captain Howard Johnson, tackle, is scrambling about with plenty of dash this week. He will not start against the Wademen, but is available when the call for duty is sounded. Ty Disney, fullback, who has been on the injured list for the past two weeks, is again in good condition and ready to take his place in the Vol lineup when needed.

Quinn Decker, another of last year's sophomore group, replaced Disney in the Chattanooga game and his work has been so impressive that Major Neyland will start him Saturday.

The Vols held a long, hard session this afternoon with most of the time being given over to polishing their own offensive weapons. They also had a squint at the Alabama plays.

Tennessee will carry an enviable record into the Tide battle. In the past three years they have lost but a single game. No team has defeated the Vols on Shields-Watkins Field since 1925.

Tulane Preps For Jackets.

New Orleans, October 15.—Coach Bernie Bierman today began turning the Green Wave toward Georgia Tech. Although the Greenies have Southwestern Louisiana and Tulane this week, no trouble is expected from the Lafayette eleven. The Wave went through a scrimmage today with mostly second-stringers participating. Tomorrow armistice is planned, with Banker, Armstrong and others of the first eleven participating.

Colgate Grooming Defense for Indiana

Hamilton, N. Y., October 15.—(United News.)—With every member of the squad in perfect shape after two inter-sectional games, Colgate began today to prepare a defense against Indiana. Coach Andy Kerr sent the first eleven through a hour of formation drill and then scrimmaged them against a picked team of scrubs schooled in Hoosier formations.

Princeton Holds Secret Practice

Princeton, N. J., October 15.—For the first time this year Princeton's practice was held behind closed doors as the Tigers began intensive drill for the Cornell game. The entire session was given over to passing.

Here's What Georgia Did to Yale's Team

New Haven, Conn., October 15.—(United News.)—Changes were ordered in the Yale varsity squad today. Coach Stevens dropped Walker, an end, and Marting, tackle, to the second eleven, and put Barres and Holley, last year's freshmen, in their places. Vincent, another tackle, was slightly injured and his place was given to Hare, sub. Albie Booth got the call over Charlie Sneed at left half. McClellan was put in for Miller at right half.

Maree Outstanding as Jackets Struggle With Florida Plays

BIG FULLBACK FAST LEARNING HIS NEW POST

Tech Coaches Face Double Problem Grooming Men for 'Gators.

By Ralph McGill.
Having had the ground knocked completely from beneath their feet last week by the North Carolina Tarheels, the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets are getting back to earth and finding that the world is going on just the same and that Florida is coming up next.

Vance Maree was the outstanding figure in the scrimmage Tuesday in which the Jackets experienced some little difficulty in stopping the Florida plays as depicted by the scrubs. The Solid Man from Savannah looks like the best defensive man the Jackets have had in some years. He stumbled around against the Mississippi Outliers, only vaguely familiar with his duties. Against North Carolina he played a magnificent defensive game.

STOPPED TARHEELS.
None of the Tarheel gains were made through the center of the secondary defense. They went through the right wing, where the Jackets had in second and third-string substitutes. Maree stopped innumerable plays Saturday. He was the man poked by the North Carolina coaches as the weak spot in the defense. Before the game Chuck Collins was doubtful whether Maree would be at fullback. "I hope he is," he said.

The Tarheel coaches had an idea that Maree would be an easy victim in the event they launched a pass attack at his position, believing him to be too inexperienced and slow of foot to block passes.

Maree knocked down two passes and covered his zone well. There was nothing to criticize about his defensive play. The Tarheel quarterback soon left him alone centered their attack, running and passing, and at the Tech right wing.

FOUND HIMSELF.
The Solid Man found himself in the Tarheel game. He should be even better against the Florida eleven. He was very handy in blocking their plays yesterday afternoon in the shank of the practice. The coaches were lashing the players on and they finally shook off the listlessness that has gripped them since the unexpected defeat last week and went after the 'Gator plays and stopped them.

The plays, however, proved very troublesome. They were used with some little success in the early part of the workout. The Gray Devils had a very skillful backfield executing them. Red Barron, Pippin, Hall and Ritchie were all busy with them and they skinned off tackle and skidded around the flanks for some nice yardage.

It was in this work that Maree showed some power at diagnosing the attack, which is the great asset of the ideal defensive man back of the line must have.

DOUBLE PROBLEM.
Tech coaches are confronted with a

Grid Injuries Fatal to Boy

Passaic, N. J., October 15.—(AP) Thomas "Tubby" O'Shea, star end of the Passaic high school football team, died in the Passaic general hospital of internal injuries he received in a game Saturday with Hackensack High school.

O'Shea was knocked unconscious while making a tackle. He regained consciousness several hours later at the hospital, but he relapsed into a coma.

"Y" BASKETBALL TEAM AT WORK

Reorganized Quint Will Put Strong Five in Winter's Competition.

Another major basketball team will be added to the Atlanta indoor competition this winter. The Y. M. C. A. team, disbanded for two years, will be reorganized. The squad is already at work.

The "Y" team is shooting for the city title. A number of competent and strong players have been enrolled on the squad which is practicing each Wednesday and Friday nights at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

A strenuous campaign has been mapped out for the team. The schedule is an attractive one already, and is not yet fully completed. An effort is being made to arrange games with the Nashville and Chattanooga amateur teams. Willie O'Connor is manager of the team and is arranging the schedule. He is confident his team will make a serious bid for city and state honors.

Allie Wilder, George Shuford, Oscar Brock, Doug Latham, Luke Morris and Willie O'Connor are outstanding contenders for the forward positions, while "Mike" Nichols, J. Lewis and Nash are fighting it out for center. At guard Dean King, Beecher Allen, Tom Medlin, Robert O'Connor, Fred Lawrence and Fincher are making an impressive showing.

Nichols, King, O'Connor, Wilder, Brock and Medlin, for the past three years members of the strong Gulf Refining team which holds victories over several of the leading independent and college teams in this section, are other players who are showing up well in the workouts.

double problem. They must remove the defeat of last year from the minds of the squad. Captivated in one sheer flight from the position of national champions defending a title to a 500 percentage in conference standing, the team received a mental shock which has not proved conducive to good work. Coaches must make them realize that one defeat doesn't make the season a failure, and at the same time drive them into the Florida game with a measure of confidence.

And the Solid Man from Savannah is being groomed to be a pain in the neck to the Florida attack. Mike Miles, the best defensive man in the last last fall, is working with him daily.

MEHRE SHIFTS SUB FULLBACK TO GUARD POST

Patterson Will Keep Job If He Makes Good; Work Easy.

Athens, Ga., October 15.—In his efforts to place his men where they can play best and where they are more adapted, Coach Harry Mehre shifted Jimmie Patterson, sophomore fullback, to guard in Tuesday's practice. The shift is permanent if Patterson comes through as expected at his new berth, and he looked mighty good there in today's scrimmage.

Patterson starred at full last year on the freshman team, and his work this season has been of good order. Coach Mehre has an abundance of fullbacks in Rothstein, Roberts, Sternoff and Jackson. Hence the reason for shifting. Patterson is a natural build for a guard, and in today's workout he looked like a Gene Smith at his new job.

Those who carried Georgia colors to new and lasting heights by defeating Yale Saturday are still on a light work diet. Only a short signal drill, with a little calisthenics, punting and passing occupied their time this afternoon. Wednesday they will strike the going rougher and will be put through a short scrimmage. Thursday will find them opening up with a lengthy offensive scrimmage just before embarking on their initial road trip of the season Thursday night.

The Bulldogs will leave the Classic City Thursday night at 10:30 for Chapel Hill, N. C., and the game with North Carolina's "Terrible Tarheels" Saturday afternoon.

A light workout in North Carolina's big stadium will be taken by the Red and Black team Friday afternoon. Coach Mehre is expected to take his entire varsity squad, 35 men, to the Tarheel stronghold.

Reserve men will likely be called to bear at least a part of Georgia's attack against the Carolinas. These men have been going through scrimmages and other preparatory work all the week, and a good many are expected to see service Saturday.

In the scrimmage today practically the same varsity team was used against a mixed team of Red Devils and sophomores, running North Carolina plays while on offense. Gerding, at half, again was the bright light in the reserves' attack. Several times he twisted and squirmed away from touchdowns. Ed Hamilton, running half, but ordinarily a quarter, and Jackson, fullback, former Decatur High product, got off for some nice gains. Both are hard fighters and may do a lot of playing before the season closes.

The Georgia coaching staff is preparing for one of the hardest games of their schedule Saturday. If they can come through with the Tarheels they will have a record of 10-0. North Carolina's team needs no introduction. They introduced themselves Friday against Tech. Georgia also made her best bow before the public in defeating Yale Saturday. Both teams are known and it remains to be seen which one will be better known.

Long Reign Predicted For Mack's Athletics

Mackmen Have Youth and Experience and Only One Change Is Needed.

By Brian Bell, Associated Press Sports Writer.
New York, October 15.—(AP)—A massive white elephant will cast a dark shadow over the American league during the off-season for baseball. The Athletics, securely placed in the front-line trenches, will be difficult to dislodge.

Connie Mack, standing alone as the sole fourth-term defender against National league clubs in world's series, probably will remain the directing head of the playing forces for at least three seasons. He then will be 70 years of age.

His present great machine should hold together for several years. The world's champions offer a well balanced combination, the enthusiasm of youth being tempered by the experience of the veterans.

Mr. Mack's first change among his regulars may be at shortstop. Joe Boley had trouble with his arm last year and was an uncertainty until the 1929 season was well on its way. The heir-apparent to the throne, however, is already in court. Eric McNair, who joined the team from Knoxville just before the season closed, may be ready to pick up Boley's glove when he casts it aside.

HURLERS SET.
Quinn and Elmke probably will not go so far from the baseball clubhouse but the other stars of the pitching staff are in the prime of their athletic lives and Bill Shores and Bill Brockbridge are more youngsters, waiting for their chance.

Bing Miller is the oldest outfielder but he will not have to retire yet. He is 36 years old, and should be the same age, 26, and should be factors in the Mackian offensive for many years.

Six months before another baseball season is scheduled to start no serious threat appears against the herd of Mack. The once invincible New York Yankees must be rebuilt and it is unlikely that they will be able to challenge next year.

CLEVELAND COMING.
Cleveland is up and coming but the Indians are not yet a good ball club. Leaving their situation much the same as that confronting the Yankees, the St. Louis Browns, Washington Senators and Detroit Tigers cannot reasonably expect to be transformed into championship contenders overnight. The Sox, White and Red, face even more necessary reorganization.

If the 67-year-old Mack can get in two or three more world's series before he retires from the turbulent baseball scene, he will have a record of 10-0. He may leave a mark for baseball generations yet unborn to attack.

The very old man is a better insurance risk today than he was one week ago. According to his own statement Saturday's game, when his "boys" came from behind to score 10 runs in the ninth inning, was his life line at least five years. The even more remarkable climax of the deciding game Monday must have taken another ten years to play out successfully.

If his expectancy of life was increased 15 years in the series just closed, he may go on managing the team indefinitely.

The Athletics' manager crossed the world throughout the world's series. He may do the same in prolonging his reign in baseball.

What the Boys Did in Series
Following are the records broken or tied during the past world series between the Athletics and Cubs and won by the former club:

INDIVIDUAL BATTING.
1. Most hits, 10, by (2), Simmons, Fox, Dykes, Boley and Burns, Philadelphia, October 12, tying several players.

2. Most runs, 11, by (2), Simmons, Fox, Dykes, October 12, tying Ross Young, Chicago.

3. Most runs batted in, 11, by (2), Simmons, October 9, tying Ruth.

4. Most base hits, 11, by (2), Simmons, Fox, Dykes, October 12, tying Ross Young, Chicago.

5. Scoring most men on long hit inning (3), Hays, October 12, tying several others.

6. Most total bases, 11, by (2), Simmons, 9-5, 12 (home run and single), tying Ross Young.

CLUB BATTING.
7. Highest batting average, club losing series, Chicago, .233.

8. Most runs both clubs, Yankees, 18, October 12.

9. Most runs, one club, inning (10), Athletics, October 12.

10. Most hits, one club, inning (10), Athletics, October 12.

11. Most strike-outs one club, game (13), Cubs (twice), October 8 and 9.

12. Most men at bat, one club, inning (18), Athletics, October 12.

13. Most men batting twice, one club, inning (8), Athletics, October 12.

14. Most time pinch-hitter batting twice in inning, Athletics (Burns), October 12.

CATCHERS FIELDING.
15. Most putouts, series, Cochran (59).

16. Most chances accepted, series (61), Cochran (59 putouts, 2 assists).

17. Most chances accepted game (13), Cochran, October 12.

GENERAL RECORDS.
18. Most strike-outs, one club, series (50), Cubs.

19. Manager winning most world championships (4), Connie Mack.

20. Most times eligible to play on consecutive days (7), Athletics, 1910, 1911, 1912, 1914, 1917, 1919, 1929.

21. Umpiring most series (14), William J. Klein, National league.

NIGHT GAMES ARE RAPIDLY TAKING HOLD

Many Schools Have Stadiums Equipped With Lights for Games.

By Dixon Stewart.
New York, October 15.—(United News.)—Night football is rapidly assuming an important place in America's collegiate sport program. Although the first gridiron game under artificial lighting was looked upon as a freak stunt less than a year ago, numerous small colleges now have stadiums equipped with lighting devices and are playing games at night.

Almost without exception night football has proved successful, and many schools regard the night game as the greatest boon to small schools since the introduction of the forward pass.

"The forward pass made it possible for small schools to defeat bigger colleges occasionally," declared Frank Y. McDonald, athletic director of the Haskell Indian Institute. "Now night football enables the small school to compete against bigger schools from an attendance standpoint."

PLAYING AT NIGHT.
Haskell, Drake University of Des Moines, Oklahoma A. & M., Detroit University, William and Mary and the University of Cincinnati are among the schools playing night games this season. Officials at these schools are enthusiastic over the night game, the general attitude being reflected by McDonald, who in explaining Haskell's adoption of the night game said:

"We have always been handicapped by the fact we were competing for attendance with larger schools in the vicinity. With night football we are enabled to draw fans unable to attend day games, as well as those who attend other games in the afternoon."

"Last year our game with Friends College drew only 800. This year we played Friends on the same field, but at night, and drew 6,000 fans."

While the increased attendance is unquestionably the main reason for night football, the game has many advantages for players and spectators.

MORE PICTURESQUE.

mounted on posts high above the field.

The white ball used in the night game is easier for the spectators to follow than the drab brown pigskins used in day games. True it reduces the possibility for an attacking team to use deception, but no doubt this will soon be offset by the adoption of white helmets or the sewing of white footballs on the jerseys—a trick made famous years ago by Pop Warner's Carlisle Indians.

Officials who have worked night games declare it is far easier to follow the play than in the day time and that the lights make it possible to watch the flight of the highest punt.

Georgia Bulldogs Renew Ancient Rivalry Saturday

Chapel Hill, N. C., October 15.—When the University of Georgia football team invades Kenan stadium here next Saturday, it will be the Bulldogs' first appearance in the Old North State in many a long year and the renewal, after a lapse of 15 years, of what used to be a mighty hot Tarheel-Bulldog grid rivalry.

And unless the prophets are mighty badly mistaken, that renewal is going to be interesting. An ambitious and up-and-coming group of sophomores and a big backfield noise named Waugh have been whooping it up steadily at Georgia this year. The Tarheels, "Team of a hundred backs," have shown their own great offensive. It looks like a big game.

SIDELIGHTS.
The sidelights promise to be almost as interesting as the game itself and promise to add considerably to the great throng to visit Chapel Hill that day. The University and State are holding Homecoming Day that Saturday, and, in addition, the university is to dedicate its new $925,000 library and open its annual Southern conference on education.

Days of old saw many a hot clash between Tarheel and Bulldog. They staged their first battle in 1895. That was the hey-day of the he-whiskered athlete who played the mass formation and bit, chewed or hacked his way to victory, catch as catch can, no holds barred. Edwin Clarke Gregory, now a prominent Salisbury attorney, then a Phi Beta Kappa football captain, led the Tarheels to a 10-6 win.

FAMOUS VICTORY.
The Tarheels and Bulldogs met every year except one until 1901, with the Tarheels winning five of six verdicts. One was the famous 44-0 victory of the 1908 team, captained to an undefeated season record by Frank Rogers, now a prominent Arkansas physician.

Georgia didn't appear on the Tarheel schedule again until 1913. The Bulldogs won a 19-6 verdict that year. Captain Dave Taylor and the 1914 Tarheels simply crashed the complaint with a 41-6 dose of defeat the following year. Another 15-year lapse, the story is brought down to date, and fans are waiting for the new installment of this ancient grid rivalry.

The white ball used in the night game is easier for the spectators to follow than the drab brown pigskins used in day games. True it reduces the possibility for an attacking team to use deception, but no doubt this will soon be offset by the adoption of white helmets or the sewing of white footballs on the jerseys—a trick made famous years ago by Pop Warner's Carlisle Indians.

Officials who have worked night games declare it is far easier to follow the play than in the day time and that the lights make it possible to watch the flight of the highest punt.

Football at night is certainly more picturesque than the day game. The brilliantly illuminated green gridiron with its white chalk lines against the background of darkened stands, lit only by the flood lights and glows of cigarettes present a colorful sight. The jerseys of the players and shining leather helmets take on added lustre under the huge arc lights which are

PASS DEFENSE HARD TO TEACH GRID PLAYERS

Roper Says Only Sure
Method Is Constant Drilling.

By W. W. Roper,
Princeton Football Coach.

Princeton, October 15.—One of the hardest things to teach is forward pass defense. In the Harvard and Yale games with Princeton since the war the majority of touchdowns made against us have been on forward passes direct, or a forward pass has led up to the score.

I have in mind particularly the Harvard game of 1919. Princeton was leading, 10-3, up to within five minutes of the end of the game, and then the Harvard quarterback ran back and threw a beautiful pass to Eddie Casey, who was playing the wing back position. Casey caught the pass about midfield and dodged his way to a touchdown. The game ended 17-10.

In 1927 Princeton was leading Yale 29 within eight minutes of the end of the game. Yale had the ball on the 40-yard line when Helen Yale, quarterback, made a beautiful long pass to Fishwick, right end. Fishwick, as a range fellow will over six feet, he caught the pass on the run and never stopped until he crossed the Princeton goal line. This play was one of the prettiest and best executed I have ever seen. Yale scored another touchdown a few minutes later and the game ended 14-6. The pass did it.

PERFECTING DEFENSE.
I am convinced that the only way to perfect a forward pass defense is by constant drill. I give our backfield 15 minutes a day in this very important practice. I usually use two scrub lines with two sets of variety ends and backs, giving one set practice in passing and the other set practice in defending against the pass.

An interesting competition can be set up by keeping an accurate record of the number of completed passes made by each side. Nothing improves any practice as much as competition. Fortunately such practice doesn't take anything out of the players. There is no heavy personal contact and the boys seem to like it, because of the competitive end of it.

The forward pass is a dangerous play for a number of reasons. First, because the passers have become so accurate. Again, the receiving of a forward pass has improved tremendously. Almost every team has an end or back, at least, who can catch a ball in almost any imaginable position. And the element of the surprise can be used so successfully in forward passing.

GREATLY IMPROVED.
I know of no offensive play that has improved as much as the forward pass. In 1906, when it was first introduced in the rules, most teams threw the pass end over end, while the receivers used to catch it in their arms, as if it were a heavy medicine ball. But now the pass can be thrown 30 or 40 yards with deadly accuracy, just as the catcher in baseball pegs the ball to second base.

There are two methods of forward pass defense. One is the zone defense, and the other the man-for-man defense. In man-for-man defense the defensive backfield men, assisted in some plays by the center, each take a particular offensive player and guard him as in basketball. In zone defense the defensive backs are assigned to a certain territory and are supposed to take any offensive player coming into this territory. Both styles of defense have their advantages, and a question whether either should be used exclusively.

The center is really the key to an eight-forward defense. When he can play out of the line the defense against the pass is much stronger. With the center out of the line every eligible player has a yard or so of the defensive team's territory.

LINE WEAKENED.
But with the center out of the line the defense against the pass is correspondingly weakened. Some teams, notably Pennsylvania and Michigan, play a 6-2-2 defense with the center out of the line entirely. Personally I prefer a varied defense, with the center in and out according to the down, position in the field and yardage. With high yardage play and center out on an open play is likely. With only a yard or so to gain I believe in playing the center in the line, as he is the most likely play is a buck and not a pass. This is where a heady quarterback shines, as often a forward pass with only a yard or so to gain is the best play. It is not expected, and the unexpected usually gains in football. This is why the pass is such a dangerous play; it can be used to good advantage when you least think it is coming.

East Will Send Best Horses West

The outstanding event of the meeting of the Agua Caliente Jockey Club is expected to have some of the best known owners in the east represented by strings of thoroughbreds, according to an announcement from the management.

Jack Campbell is to be the racing secretary and he has interested such astute men as Willie Sharpe Kilmer, Earl Sande, W. R. Coe, Gifford A. Schran, the Seagraves brothers and John R. Macomber. Mrs. Graham Vanderbilt and Harry Payne Whitney are also considering sending small strings to the new course which will replace the old Tia Juana track.

The outstanding event of the meeting will be the $100,000 Agua Caliente handicap, which will replace the old offshoot handicap. Sun Beau, one of the best handicap horses in the east, and the star of the Kilmer string, is considered a sure starter for this race.

Morris Brown Asks Florida to Game

The Athletic Association of Morris Brown University has extended an invitation to Coach Bachman of the University of Florida and his squad to attend the game Friday evening, October 18, between Florida A. & M. (colored state school) and Morris Brown university to be played at Morris Brown.

Both teams played equally well against opponents in the Southeastern association and a great game is expected.

Florida Governor To See Game Here

Gainesville, Fla., October 15.—(AP)—Governor Doyle Carlton, his wife and daughter and a party of ten will attend the Florida-Georgia Tech game in Atlanta Saturday.

The state board of control, with the governor and Mrs. Carlton, will be guests of the University of Florida for the homecoming game in Gainesville on November 16 with Clemson.

DUKE REACHES PEAK FOR NAVY

Blue Devils Ready To Give Middies Tough Battle.

Durham, N. C., October 15.—Commander Jonas Ingram, athletic officer at the United States Naval Academy, wrote to Duke in the summer and added this as a closing line:

"I suppose you'll bring a team of wildcats up here this fall."

And that is just about the size of the thing. The Blue Devils who face Navy Saturday at Annapolis are looking like wildcats now—scrappy wild cats with both cunning and scotch.

Duke looks 50 per cent better right now than it did for the game with Pitt, according to the view of the coaches.

CHANGES.
This improvement is made possible by changes in the lineup, and return to form of Captain Henry Kistler and John Jankowski, and a new fighting spirit that was not before apparent.

Duke will go to Annapolis Saturday not only determined to fight to the last, but with the hope of sinking the craft entirely.

The Blue Devils seem to have found themselves about a week last Thursday. The practice up to that time had been somewhat listless, as if the men were disheartened at Pitt's 52-7 triumph.

And then, perhaps, the coaches played a little psychology on the Devils, for unexpectedly they were loaded in a big bus and taken over to their new stadium, where they went to defeat in its dedication.

SNAPPY WORK.
Those Devils whiffed the atmosphere of the battlefield and immediately snuggled into it. For an hour they showed better football than they had shown all year. Friday afternoon they fought tooth and nail for an hour and a half, variety vs. scrums, or rather eleven good men against eleven other good men.

Four of the starters in the Pitt game were in the lineup of the second team. In fact, no one would hardly determine which was varsity and which was not.

It was easily the best football they had shown this year, and with this turn in affairs the Devils kept it up and added to the momentum.

And right now they have arrived at a point football coaches refer to as "the peak," probably not intentionally but so, nevertheless.

This great fighting spirit still pervades the squad, and to keep it at high pitch there has been no definite lineup chosen for Saturday. It may be Wednesday, or Thursday even, before the coaches announce who's who as starters that day.

The Devils will practice right up to Friday evening, when they board the special train for Washington. The game is to be played in Annapolis, and the students, band and players will go from Washington to Annapolis by electric road and bus.

TIGER TEAM IS UNITED

sonal and work for the university. Progress, handicapped by recalcitrant players, should be rapid.

SQUAD IS GREEN.
The Auburn squad is green. The line is large and slow in addition to lacking experience. As Assistant Coach Johnny Floyd sized it up some time ago, "They can't do what they don't know how to do."

Floyd has been of great value to Auburn. Under his direction the style of play has been changed to one similar to that used by Vanderbilt. Floyd is an old Vanderbilt star. Curiously enough the greatest game he ever played was against Auburn in 1916. He bucked the ball 68 yards in successive plays in the Auburn-Vanderbilt game of that year. It was one of the greatest exhibitions of line-bucking ever seen in the south. Floyd was an assistant to Dan McGugin before going to Auburn and is a smart, capable coach.

NEW SYSTEM.
Auburn, after being one of the major teams in the south for years, declined so far as football progress was concerned. A number of coaching combinations have been tried. Dave Morey, a Dartmouth man, was tried for a number of years with no success. George Bohler, head coach, turned out his first team last fall. He has changed his style of play this year.

Auburn is undoubtedly improving this year. The team has shown more football knowledge than in any previous year since the decline. Florida, Vanderbilt and Tennessee scouts who watched the Plainsmen in action against Clemson and Florida found them to be a potentially powerful team that had not found itself. They made 15 first downs against the strong Clemson team.

UNITED TEAM.
The united, spirited Auburn team had its best practice of the year Tuesday. They are looking forward to a great game with the Commodores on Saturday at Birmingham. Vanderbilt took a severe beating in holding the powerful Minnesota team to a 15-6 score last week at Minneapolis and Auburn has hopes of winning.

The Plainsmen are like that. They have not won a conference game in years, but they keep fighting and improving in each game.

With the source of dissension gone the team may be expected to make its finest showing of the year against the Commodores.

Good Nicknames.
Yale, Butler, Georgia and Drake use the same nickname, Bulldogs. Princeton, Clemson and Hampden-Sidney are Tigers. Kentucky, Northwestern and Davidson are Wildcats.

WOLVES FACE DEACONS NEXT

Old Rivals Meet Thursday in 21st Game on Grid.

State College, N. C., October 15.—The Wolfpack of North Carolina State and the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest meet in football at Riddick field on Thursday, in the eighteenth renewal of the big state fair week gridiron classic.

There was no state fair in 1926 and 1927, and last year the North Carolina State college football schedule had already been arranged, with no chance for a change, when the state fair dates were announced.

Except for these three years, and the war year, 1918, a State College football game has been the big side feature of the state fair since 1908.

Three fair week games have been played with Wake Forest.

The State-Wake Forest game this year will be observed as the special homecoming game for N. C. State alumni. With the entire week set aside as the homecoming period for all North Carolinians who now live in other states, it is expected that the game will be witnessed by one of the largest crowds in the history of the fair week series.

The game will be the twenty-third meeting of the Wolfpack and the Demon Deacons. As mentioned above, three of the games were played as fair week attractions.

During the 22 years of the history of the Wake Forest-N. C. State football game, the Demon Deacons have won only three times, in 1918 and in 1923 and 1924. In the 22 games State has scored 187 points, while the Wake Forest total for the series stands at 85.

With a greatly improved team, Wake Forest will be rated this year on equal terms with a light, green State team. The Baptist hosts are looking for a victory, and it may be a Wake Forest year.

The history of the State-Wake Forest game, by years, is as follows:

1908—N. C. State, 76	Wake Forest, 0
1909—No game.
1910—N. C. State, 29	Wake Forest, 3

New Sports Hurt Bullfighting

Lisbon, October 15.—(AP)—The bull-rings of Portugal are gradually being transformed into boxing arenas, football fields and baseball diamonds.

The traditional pastime of the Portuguese people is dying out. No longer on Sunday afternoons are thousands of people making their way to the huge Lisbon bullring at Camp Pequeno.

There is scarcely a town in Portugal without a bullring, but most of them are closed and deserted now or remodeled to house a more modern sport.

Only about half a dozen "tourneys" were given in the Lisbon arena this season, and the absence of patrons was so pronounced that the management had to organize an international boxing match to fill the empty coffers. The boxing fans not only filled the amphitheater, which holds 10,000, but paid big prices for standing room.

There has always been a law against killing the bull, but last year permission was given for the bulls to be killed, and famous matadors from Spain were engaged at a high cost. But the public revolted against the cruelty, forcing authorities to withdraw their permission.

The best bulls in the Iberian peninsula have been bred for centuries in Portugal on the banks of the Tagus. Now these animals are sold in Spain.

British Devise Rowing Stroke

London, October 15.—(AP)—Athletes of the London Rowing Club have devised a system of "syncoated" rowing which they contend is much faster than any yet seen in regattas heretofore.

The usual method of rowing, in which the whole crew pulls together, pauses, and pulls again, results in a loss of momentum between strokes, advocates of the new system explain.

In "syncoated" rowing the crew members row in pairs, so that some of the oars always are pulling.

For instance, stroke and seven pull, then six and five, and so on down the line.

The result is a steady propulsion similar to that of a paddlewheel or propeller.

More space is needed for the rowers in this method, however; a shell ordinarily carrying eight men being about roomy enough for six men using the "syncoated" stroke.

Bill McKechnie Set To Manage Braves

Boston, October 15.—(AP)—Boston's luckless Braves have had three managers in the last two years but unless the unexpected happens they will have only one manager in the next four years.

Jack Slattery began 1928 as the Braves' manager. He was succeeded in midsummer by Rogers Hornsby. When the Rajah was sent to Chicago last winter, Judge Fuchs, himself, tried the managerial job and also failed. So he stepped out and signed McKechnie for four years.

Fast Backs.
Followers of the University of Maryland team say that the North Carolina backs, who ran up a score of 43 to 0 against the Terrapins, are the fastest ball-carriers ever seen on that field.

Total bond sales (par value)

New York, October 15.—(P)—A good reinvestment demand came to the bond market today as upwards of $300,000,000 in dividends and interest was distributed by corporations, and prices moved higher. Time money

again provided an impetus to favorable sentiment for the rates on longer maturities were quoted at 7-1/2 to 7-3/4 per cent against yesterday's flat rate of 8.

The rails were well supported, particularly the loans with high yields.

Advancing a point or more were numerous in this basic group, the average for which has improved more than 3-4 of a point since the market started upward.

Industrials also worked higher, but utilities were somewhat stationary.

Softness marked the convertible group, for stocks were under pressure.

The rail list showed gains of 1 to 3-1/2 points in Baltimore & Ohio re-

Sales (in $1,000). High, Low, Close.

New York, October 15.—(AP)—

The stock market continued to drift toward lower levels today. Small traders were apathetic and professional operators hesitant. The day's transactions totaled 3,107,050 shares, a modestly increase from yesterday's exceptionally dull business, but still around the low levels of last June.

The day's industrial and financial news was not encouraging, and commission houses continued to recom-

happens to shake the market out of its rut. A few specialties in which

to be pending were rapidly bid up and the utilities again were sharply

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 51

What could have happened to those he had left upon the Kincaid? Had they deserted? Rokoif gave a hurried backward glance. Upon the shore he saw the snarling Beasts of Tarzan. Even now, he thought, these manlike devils might find a way to reach him, and he shivered at the possibility. Frantically he paddled toward the silent ship. At last he grasped its monkey ladder and started to ascend to the deck.

Before the Russian had climbed a foot he heard a warning challenge from above. Looking up, he gazed into the cold, relentless muzzle of a rifle. When he saw who it was that repelled his advance, he fell to pleading and promising. Jane Clayton, for it was she who held the rifle—had but a single reply to it all. One step upward and she would shoot to kill.

Long days and weary nights had passed for Jane after she had escaped the Russian up the river. But finally she reached the open water unharmed and seeing a ship at anchor her heart beat high with hope. But as she drew closer she found it was the Kincaid. It was too late to turn back, however. Her tired muscles could manage the dugout no longer. She decided to throw herself on the mercy of the Kincaid's crew.

To her surprise, there appeared no sign of life aboard the ship. The current swung the dugout close to the Kincaid and with desperation born of despair she managed to clamber to the deserted deck, her rifle slung about her shoulders. Cautiously she explored the ship and was not long in discovering the cause of its apparently deserted condition. In the forecastle she found the sailor guard, deep in drunken slumber.

Dr. B. J. W. Graham Elected New Baptist Moderator

The Atlanta Baptist Association will enter upon its second and closing day's session at 10 o'clock this morning at the Druid Hills Baptist church. This is the twenty-first annual session of this body, the second largest district Baptist association in the United States. Only the Philadelphia Baptist Association is larger than the Atlanta.

The association convened Tuesday morning, electing Dr. B. J. W. Graham, pastor of the First Baptist church, Hapeville, as moderator and Dr. W. H. Faust, pastor of the Gordon Street church, as vice moderator. H. E. Moody was elected clerk. Frank S. Etheridge was elected treasurer and Julian M. Harrison was elected auditor. The annual sermon was delivered by Dr. M. A. Cooper, pastor of the West End Baptist church.

The association heard the reports from the executive committee, read by Dr. W. Lee Catts, chairman, and the report of the Atlanta Baptist council, read by Dr. Louis D. Newton, president. These reports revealed steady growth in the work of the denomination during the past year with the exception of the number of baptisms. Three churches had not reported, but there were 265 less baptisms than reported last year. The number this year, not including three of the churches, was 1,723 as compared with 1,928 last year. The total gifts to missions this year exceeded the amount given last year. Total gifts this year for missions total $110,887, not including reports from three churches.

Mission Donations Reported. The Ponce de Leon Avenue church led in the amount given to missions during the year. A considerable proportion of this amount was applied to the new plant recently erected by that church.

The Tuesday afternoon session was devoted to the report on Christian education with an address by President Spright Dowell, of Mercer university, followed by an address by Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills church and editor of the Christian Index, speaking on the cooperative program of Georgia Baptists.

Tuesday evening the program was given over to the training forces of the denomination, including the Sunday school workers in the south. traced the Sunday school movement from William Fox in England to the present, showing how intelligent methods of Bible study and teacher training and better facilities in buildings have contributed to a remarkable growth in this field of religious endeavor.

The addresses of Mrs. Rhodes and Mr. Lee revealed his increases in the woman's work and the work of the young people. Many suggestions of enlarged plans were hinted in the reports and addresses last night.

A feature of the Tuesday evening session was the presence of 20 odd young ladies from the Georgia Baptist Orphan Home at Hapeville. They sang for the large audience and impressed everyone with the talent and earnestness of the individuals and the group.

More than 1,100 persons attended the Tuesday morning session of the association. The program was given over to an entertainment announced that 1,152 persons partook of the old-fashioned dinner on the ground yesterday.

This dinner was provided by the Druid Hills church and consisted of such delectable viands as fried chicken, baked ham, cakes and pies of every sort and many salads and other delicacies. Again today the association will be entertained with a dinner on the grounds.

The program today will begin with a devotion conducted by Rev. Grover C. Light, pastor of North Atlanta Baptist church, followed by the report on state, home and foreign missions, read by Rev. W. A. Duncan, pastor of the First Baptist church, East Point.

The afternoon session today will be devoted to a discussion of benevolences, including the Georgia Baptist Orphan Home and the Georgia Baptist hospital. The report will be read by Rev. R. C. Huston, pastor of the Central Baptist church, following the devotion, conducted by Rev. T. P. Tribble.

Important committee reports will be heard Wednesday afternoon, including the report on the Georgia Baptist association, Charles W. Outlaw is chairman of that committee. Further discussion of local Baptist affairs will be held by Dr. G. J. Davis, executive secretary of the association.

The association voted Tuesday afternoon to invite the 1930 session of the Georgia Baptist convention, appointing Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, chairman of the committee to extend this invitation. Dr. Louis D. Newton was named chairman of the committee on order of business for the 1930 session.

Circus Plays to Capacity Audiences in Atlanta Stay

Every available seat at two performances was filled Tuesday here for the annual appearance of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey's circus at the Highland avenue showgrounds.

As usual, the circus packed in its thrills and its laughs. Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey bring their regular three-ring offering with it much going on at one time that it is almost impossible for the spectator to see it all. While his attention is being centered on one ring something is going on in another and still something else in the third ring.

Hugo Zaccaria, the "human projectile," was by far the stellar performer. Hugo secured himself in a big cannon and was shot out of it into a waiting net some 30 to 40 feet distant. The "human projectiles" feat is one of the most daring ever seen here.

Then there was Lillian Leitzel, the old aerial favorite, not as active as she used to be, but still one of the queens of the big top. The Flying Codonas, aerialists; Con Colleano, light-wire performer; Miss Winnifred and Maximo, the wire comedian, pleased as usual.

The Wallendas and the Reilmuts, from foreign shores, appeared this year in a sensational wire act in which they performed thrilling feats on a wire 45 feet above the ground, with no net underneath.

The Riefenbachs, the Ernestos and the Davenportes are riders supreme on their fiery, beautiful steeds, these equestrian performers are conceded to be the greatest in their class.

The big circus carries 1,600 persons, 1,000 menagerie animals and scores of feature acts. The "big top" or main tent seats 16,000 persons and is the largest out-of-door auditorium in the world.

The play, "Athaliah," presented Tuesday night at the auditorium-armory by the Delphian Society, in honor of the late K. A. H. Hess, president of the Fifth District of Georgia, Federation of Women's Clubs, was received by a moderately large and quite appreciative audience.

The drama, based upon the eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh chapters of the Second Book of Kings in the Holy Bible, was written by Rev. W. A. H. Turner, soprano, and Gabriel Guttinger, Hebrew chorister.

Mrs. Natalie Cooper Buchanan directed the cast and the stage setting was planned by the committee of costumes. Mrs. Alfred Myers, Mrs. Leo M. Strauss, Mrs. Ernest Morrison, Julian V. Boehm and Lionel Keene.

Adolph Windmarer and Dr. Joseph M. Hart were in charge of "make-up," and Miss Helen Knox Spain, of program, and the Delphian Society, of costumes. Music was under the direction of Leida's Orchestra. Charles A. Shelton, Jr., and Griffith School of Music, augmented by St. Philip's Cathedral choir.

The committee sponsoring the play included: Mrs. C. W. McClure, Mrs. Kate Green Hess, Mrs. J. W. Peacock, Mrs. John K. Orley, Mrs. Burt V. Nichols, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. R. Rambo, Mrs. Oscar Palnour, Mrs. C. E. LaFontaine, Mrs. S. H. Dulany, Mrs. McIntosh Burns, Mrs. N. O. Newman, Mrs. A. S. Marshall and Miss Julia Brenner.

The title role was capably handled by Mrs. W. C. Jarnagin, long identified with dramatic work in this city. Other leading roles were skillfully presented by such artists as Miss Frances Freeborn, Frank McMillan, Mrs. McClure, Mrs. C. E. Frances Perkins, Mrs. Lamont Myers, George T. Bush, Dean Raimundo at a local hospital. The body will be taken to Alpharetta for services and burial.

CARTERSVILLE VOTES MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP
Cartersville, Ga., October 15.—(Special.)—At an election held here today the people of Cartersville voted not to sell the municipally-owned electric light and power plant to the Georgia Power Company. The vote was 483 in favor of the sale and 593 against. This election culminated a contest of two years' duration. The power company had offered to buy the local electric plant.

This decision of Tuesday's voting the city will continue to own its electricity plant, purchasing power at wholesale rates from the power company, and thus handling the retail distribution, as in the past.

Another Clear Day Forecast By Weatherman
Continued fair weather, with no material change in temperature, was forecast for Atlantans today, in the report issued Tuesday by C. F. von Herrmann, of the United States weather bureau.

Rains are not expected until the latter part of the week, the weatherman stated.

The thermometer today is due to range between 56 and 71 degrees. The lowest temperature recorded yesterday was 52 degrees and the highest was 72 degrees.
